MAKES AFFIDAVIT AND GIVES IT TO HER

Acknowledges Her as His Lawful Spouse—Suits to Be Dismissed and They Will Live Together—They're "Very Happy."

High W. Thomasson, 73-year-old capitalist, was home today from his "second honeymoon," having signed an affidavit asserting his 25-year-old bride did not kidnap him, that they had decided to "let bygones be bygones," and deeding her two pieces of St. Louis real estate with an assessed valuation of $588,000.

The property transfer, recorded at City Hall in the forenoon, gives his bride undisputed title to the southwest corner of Broadway and Washington avenues and the north-west corner of Euclid and McPherson avenues.

The Broadway-Washington property, 72 by 80 feet, is assessed for taxation at $646,000. The Euclid-Washington property, 92 by 125 feet, is assessed at $42,330, and is subject to a $25,000 deed of trust. Both properties have buildings upon them and are worth in excess of the assessed valuation which usually varies from 70 to 85 per cent of actual valuation.

MR. AND MRS. HUGH W. THOMASSON PHOTOGRAPHED today at her home—which he gave her—at 56 Broadway drive, Clayton. They returned to St. Louis yesterday after a wide search had been made for them on the theory that he had been kidnaped.

SERVICE CAR DRIVER GETS 60-DAY WORKHOUSE TERM

Penalty Imposed for Speeding at 50 Miles an Hour on West Florissant.

Arthur Busmeyer, a service car driver who has been arrested frequently for traffic violations, was sentenced to 60 days in the Workhouse by Police Judge Foster today for speeding at 50 miles an hour on West Florissant avenue, Jan. 21.

The arresting policeman submitted Busmeyer's record which included arrests for careless driving, felonious wounding, speeding and manslaughter. In the manslaughter case, he was fined $10 and costs.

Busmeyer, who resides at 6530 Beulah place, St. Louis county, said he would appeal.

MOISTURE DEFICIENCY GRAVE IN 7 STATES IN DROUTH AREA

Unless Those East of the Mississippi Get Rain Soon, Year Will Start in Bad Shape.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Winter has not stopped the drouth. East of the Mississippi River an unusually dry and warm January has followed December, which for the greater portion of the vast area affected by the 1930 drouth was the driest month of the year.

In direct contrast with a year ago, when winter precipitation was normal, or above normal in much of the parched area, this year's moisture deficiency is pronounced.

J. B. Kincer, agricultural meteorologist, said today that far conditions generally in drouth sections are much worse than a year ago. At the same time he saw a possibility of falls of snows and heavy spring rains still might remedy dry subsoil conditions.

"But unless we get some good rain soon," he added, "we will start this year in bad shape."

Seven states east of the Mississippi River are especially affected. They are: Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania. Michigan and West Virginia are better off.

West of the Mississippi River conditions generally are better than in the eastern half of the country. Oklahoma, however, an important wheat state, Kincer said, "is getting pretty dry," and in Missouri "moisture is needed but not as urgently."

BOOTLEGGER'S CONVENTION RAIDED BY DENVER POLICE

29 Men, Said to Have Been Discussing Campaign Against Prohibition, Arrested.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 26.—Detectives and patrolmen yesterday raided what A. T. Clark, chief of Detectives, described as a bootleggers' convention, held at a roadhouse. Twenty-nine men, alleged by police to be members of a liquor organization were arrested. According to Clark, the meeting discussed plans for a "reign of terror" to eliminate price slashing in liquor circles here.

GOVERNOR SAVES SLAYER AGUELERA FROM GALLOWS

Commutes to Life Imprisonment Sentence of Youth Whose Hanging Was Set for Friday.

MEXICAN EMBASSY URGED CLEMENCY

Caulfield Moved by Fact Other Participants in Same Holdup Murder Received Prison Terms.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 26.—Gov. Caulfield today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Miguel Aguelera, whose hanging in the St. Louis city jail had been set for Friday. Aguelera, 22 years old, was one of three Mexican youths convicted of the killing of Nathan Brodgon, 42, in a holdup of his clothing store at 2317 Cherokee street, St. Louis, Oct. 31, 1928.

The Governor's action was taken after he received a communication from the Mexican Embassy at Washington, asking that the life of Aguelera, a Mexican citizen, be spared. The Governor, however, assigned other reasons for his action.

Governor Gives Reason. The principal reason, he said, was that the two other participants in the robbery and murder, David Velasco and Jose Martinez, had been sentenced to life imprisonment. While all three, under the law, were equally guilty, the Governor pointed out that Velasco would generally be deemed the most guilty of the three, since the testimony indicated that he fired the fatal shot.

Velasco, tried separately, got a life sentence. Martinez and Aguelera, tried together, were sentenced to death by Circuit Judge Rutledge reduced Martinez's punishment to life imprisonment, because it was shown that Martinez was waiting outside the shop when the shooting occurred.

Registration of justice in the sentences, and his further reason for the commutation, the Governor said: "Such inequalities of punishment are not conducive to a respect for the law."

Denied an Interpreter. "I am moved to exercise clemency also by the fact that Aguelera was not provided with an interpreter. He was being tried for his life, and any doubt in respect to his need of an interpreter should have been resolved in his favor. Indeed, no harm whatever to the administration of justice could possibly have resulted from his having an interpreter."

The Supreme Court, in upholding Aguelera's conviction, upheld the trial court in refusing a Spanish-language interpreter, as four witnesses, one of them for the defense, testified that Aguelera understood and spoke English.

Aguelera, told in jail today of the commutation of his sentence, said: "That was what I have been praying for, but I had a dream last night that I was being hanged. I'm glad that dream is not to come true. I am not guilty and I was much disappointed that the Supreme Court did not grant me a new trial." He spoke English with difficulty.

PARROT CLEW TO MURDERER

Neighbors Tell of Bird's Screams in Killing of Housewife.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Police believe a big green parrot may hold the key to the brutal murder of Mrs. Francis Ytkos in her East Side apartment. Mrs. Ytkos was found hacked to death, an ax on the floor nearby. Neighbors say they were awakened in the night by shrieks of the parrot, which sounded like, "Don't, papa—don't!"

EX-GOV. EDWARDS OF NEW JERSEY COMMITS SUICIDE

Dies After Shooting Himself During Night While Alone in His Room—Served in U. S. Senate.

DESPONDENT FOR SEVERAL MONTHS

Recently Suffered Both Political and Business Reverses—A Wet Leader, He Never Drank.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, N. J., Jan. 26.—Edward J. Edwards, former Governor of New Jersey and former United States Senator, shot himself last night when alone in his bedroom at his home. He died today. His son, Irving Edwards, said he had been suffering from ill health and despondency for several months.

Until a few years ago Edwards was a power in both politics and finance in New Jersey. In 1920 his assertion that he would make New Jersey "as wet as the Atlantic Ocean" caused him to be mentioned as an anti-prohibition candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. But in 1923 he was defeated for re-election to the United States Senate and later he had a falling out with Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City. Edwards, leader of the State, that ended his political prominence.

His financial position suffered because of the troubles of the New Jersey Securities Co., of which he was president. The organization, which owned several banks in Northern New Jersey, went into receivership in 1929 and his chief stockholder, Harry H. Weinberger, subsequently was indicted on charges of fraud.

Edwards' body was not discovered until today, after he had died. Charles J. Baumgarten, an old friend and adviser, had called to confer with him. Baumgarten thought it strange when a servant told him Edwards still was in bed and with Walter Westfall, a neighbor, he went to the bedroom.

A sealed letter to his daughter was left by Edwards. Police said Miss Edwards collapsed on being notified and did not immediately open the letter.

A Vigorous Opponent of Prohibition. But Never Drank. Edward J. Edwards was one of those men in public life whose stand on prohibition was somewhat anomalous. On that issue he was one of the most vigorous and outspoken opponents, yet he did not use intoxicants.

Although holding liberal views concerning the Eighteenth Amendment, the Senator's opposition to the prohibition amendment and the Volstead act was based primarily on his opinion that both were an infringement of the liberties of the people.

He was elected Governor of New Jersey in a campaign conducted on the issue of personal liberty, and in his inaugural address attracted national attention by his bold denunciation of prohibition and the Volstead law. He urged the Attorney-General of the State to institute proceedings to test the constitutionality of the amendment and the act.

Three years later when Mr. Edwards made the race for the United States Senate against Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, he again issued the personal liberty issue in the campaign and was elected by the unprecedented plurality in New Jersey of 89,000 votes.

"West of the Wets." Throughout his service in the Upper House of Congress, Senator Edwards never lost an opportunity to express his views opposing prohibition and he frequently made them the subject of addresses at public and private functions other than legislative sessions.

By his constant stand against prohibition, he came to be known as "one of the wettest of the wets." This was the cause of one of the amusing and surprising incidents of the Democratic National convention at Houston in 1928.

GANDHI FREED SECRETLY TO AVOID DEMONSTRATION; BOARDS TRAIN FOR BOMBAY

Treat Peacefully With India Lest Force Be Needed: M'Donald

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 26. PREMIER Ramsay MacDonald told the House of Commons today that unless Great Britain is willing to continue peaceful negotiations for the settlement of the Indian problem, British soldiers must be prepared to subdue by force not only the Indian masses but also the spirit of the times.

MacDonald said that by a policy of repression Great Britain would obtain neither credit nor success. A great proportion of the masses, he said, were women and children, and the task would develop into one of repression of the entire Indian population.

"We are prepared," he said, "to stand for the whole world the failure of our political genius and at the same time provide a spectacle which will bring our name and fame very low, indeed, then refuse to allow us to go on."

"But if, on the other hand, you want to bind India to you by bonds of confidence and make her happy within your empire and commonwealth, being one of the members of 10, in gratitude and freedom, then accept the work that has been done at the Round Table Conference and instruct the Government to proceed with it to a complete conclusion."

MacDonald's declaration came

MAHATMA GANDHI

In the course of a speech initiating the long and anxiously awaited debates on the Round Table Conference which finished its labors 10 days ago. The conference, he said, had succeeded in agreeing in advance, in general principle, on the main elements to be embodied in any Constitution for India that may be set up in the future.

QUIT POONA JAIL BY BACK DOOR, IS HURRIED TO DEPOT

Indian Nationalist Leader Is Thin and Worn but Chats Pleasantly With Companions About Eight Months in Prison.

LARGE CROWDS FAIL TO SEE HIM

Mahatma Released by Order of Viceroy So He Might Discuss Britain's Home Rule Proposal With His Colleagues.

By the Associated Press. POONA, India, Jan. 26.—Mahatma Gandhi, 61-year-old leader of the Indian Nationalists, was released from prison shortly after 11 o'clock tonight. He had been in prison eight months.

He was taken out the back way secretly, bundled into a closed automobile with drawn curtains and driven to a small railway station about 10 miles from Poona, where the authorities put him on a train for Bombay. He was due to arrive there at 5:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. He wore only his usual homespun loin cloth, and a thin cotton shirt, over his shoulders. He was thin and worn.

With him on the train was the Nationalist, Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, India's leading woman poet, who toured America in 1925. Along the route on which the automobile sped were armed sentries who turned back cars which sought to follow the Mahatma.

None but a few persons, including the Associated Press correspondent, knew in advance the exact hour of the release. Authorities had maintained the closest secrecy as a precaution against demonstrations.

Large Crowds Disappointed. All day and all night crowds in which there were many women waited outside the jail, hoping for a glimpse of the man who would lead India's 320,000,000 persons to independence from British rule. They were disappointed.

Gandhi's last act before leaving the prison where he had lived since last May was to hand Maj. J. R. Martin, the superintendent, a written statement in which, it was understood, he thanked him for his consideration and treatment. Gandhi occupied several large rooms opening on the courtyard garden.

For the five-hour ride by train to Bombay and the crowded ordinary passenger quarters of a regular train. Four Hindu attendants were allowed them.

The Associated Press correspondent was one of a small group that traveled with the Mahatma. He chatted pleasantly about his life in prison and his plans for the future. He was particularly interested to know what America thought of him and how the American people regarded Premier Ramsay MacDonald's declaration of Indian policy. He was too weary and excited, he said, to give a formal interview, but he promised a statement when he reached Bombay.

Spends the Day Spinning. Gandhi spent today in prison at his miniature spinning wheel. He observes his period of silence every Monday as a sort of "tonic and rest for his soul."

Lord Irwin, in his decree, said release of the Working Committee members had been decided upon so they might have an opportunity of discussing the Prime Minister's declaration of Jan. 19 at the close of the Round Table Conference. The decree canceled former regulations which made the Working Committee an unlawful assembly.

BLOOD OF PARROT INJECTED IN SICK GIRL BY MISTAKE

Doctor Misunderstands Over Telephone but Patient and Bird Are Recovering.

By the Associated Press.

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 26.—Fifteen-year-old Lillian Fisher was recovering from an attack of infantile paralysis today with the blood of a parrot injected in her body through a misunderstanding.

Lillian was in a serious condition last Friday. The family physician called the DuRand Hospital in Chicago and asked that a serum be sent. He returned to the Joliet hospital saying he had been informed that serum was no longer used in such cases and that the latest thing was the injection of "parrot's blood."

There are not a great many parrots in Joliet, but hospital attaches finally found a woman who was willing to allow her bird to undergo the operation. It was given an anesthetic and five cubic centimeters of blood was taken and injected intermuscularly into the girl.

Today, with both the girl and the parrot recovering, Dr. George Weaver, chief of staff of the DuRand Hospital, heard about it. He said he doubted that the injection had helped the girl, but that he knew of nothing harmful in a parrot's blood.

"The doctor just misunderstood me," said Dr. Weaver. "I said parrot's blood, not parrot's blood."

PLEA FOR NEW TRIAL DELAYS SENTENCING OF MISS DE BOE

Clara Bow Sends Letter to District Attorney Asking That "Mercy Be Shown."

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 26.—Sentencing of Daisy de Boe for the alleged theft of $325 from Clara Bow was postponed today until next Monday by Judge William Doran when defense counsel made a motion for a new trial and asked for a delay to permit preparation of arguments.

A letter was received by District Attorney Buron Fitts this morning from Clara expressing the actress' hope "that mercy will be shown to Daisy de Boe." It read: "My Dear Mr. Fitts: I am not sure to whom this letter should be addressed, or whether it is even proper under the circumstances to even write it, but I find myself unable to avoid letting you know that it is my hope that mercy will be shown to Daisy de Boe."

"The fact is that I never would have called this matter to your attention in the first place if Daisy de Boe had not threatened to blackmail me and I had no other way to protect myself except to come to your office and follow your advice."

120 OF LARGER CITIES HAVE NO BREAD LINES

Survey of Total of 149 Turned Over to Hoover Unemployment Group.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Despite the widespread unemployment, 120 of 149 larger cities in 35 states included in a recent survey of relief measures by the Family Welfare Association of America have no bread lines. The information gathered by the association among its 240 member agencies has been turned over to President Hoover's Emergency Committee for Employment.

Seventy-five cities reported that they had had no bread lines or soup kitchens this winter, while 45 have been able to turn community thinking toward more individual forms of relief," the report says. Ninety-five of the agencies reporting felt that existing relief funds would be insufficient, although other avenues for obtaining funds seem to be generally available. Eighty-two societies indicated that public appropriations for additional relief could be obtained.

Forty agencies said their communities were studying methods to prevent seasonal unemployment and to stabilize local industries, while 32 have committees seeking to relieve distress through the creation of jobs and the encouragement of correlated social work. One hundred and twelve agencies have plans for the creation of old jobs for the jobless and 64 are sponsoring "made work." Ninety communities are endeavoring to originate or extend public works.

"HERCULES, THE STRONG MAN" SHOT TO DEATH IN NEW YORK

James Caputo, Juggler and Acrobat, Murdered in Street; Revolver Found a Block Away.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—James Caputo, 32 years old, known on the stage as "Hercules, the Strong Man," was shot between the eyes last night and died in his tracks in the East New York section of Brooklyn.

"Crimes 'Save me, save me,'" as he ran from the scene, Martin Sallarulo was taken into custody and questioned by police. He said he was passing by when a man shot Caputo and fled. An old-fashioned revolver with which police think the crime was committed was found a block away.

Caputo was understood to have a wife and two children in Italy. He was a juggler and acrobat by profession and was a powerfully built man of about 325 pounds. Police could offer no theory for the murder.

COAST GUARD KILLS SKIPPER OF CANADIAN LIQUOR SHIP

Schooner Captain Fatally Wounded When Shot From Cutter's One-Pounder Crashes Through Bridge—19 Men Arrested

"JUSTIFIED," BASE COMMANDER SAYS

Contraband Valued at $250,000 Being Transferred to Scow and Tug Off Ambrose Light When Discovered.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—The two-masted Canadian liquor schooner, Josephine K., flying the British flag, was captured in a chase by a coast guard cutter Saturday night off Ambrose Light Ship, after the captain, William Cluett, had been fatally wounded on the bridge by a shot from the cutter's one-pounder. Cluett died in Marine Hospital at Rosebank without regaining consciousness.

With the schooner were seized more than $250,000 worth of liquor, a scow into which the liquor was being loaded, and a tugboat used to tow the scow. Nineteen men were arrested. A liquor speedboat escaped.

It is almost certain that the Canadian Government will ask for an explanation. So far, the prisoners have not had a chance to make a statement whether the Josephine K. was inside the 12-mile limit when seized. Capt. A. G. Gabbett, commanding Coast Guard base No. 2, said there was no doubt that the Josephine K. was inside the 12-mile limit, and he, as the captain of the cutter, whose name he withheld, for his action. Capt. Gabbett said firing the shot that killed Cluett was justified.

Discovered by Accident. The seized scow, owned by the A. & S. Transportation Co., New York, which has a contract to remove sludge from the mouth of the Passaic Valley sewer where it empties into New York Bay. The seized tug belongs to the Dautless Towing Line, Inc.

It is presumed that the liquor-running was being done by the respective crews of the scow and the tug. Their routine gave them a good chance to get liquor into the harbor since the scow went out full and came back empty and its presence in the bay would excite no suspicion.

The liquor transfer was discovered by accident. Coast Guard cutter No. 145 was cruising about four and one-half miles southeast of Ambrose Light at 10 p. m. Saturday night. This position would place it about two and one-half miles inside the 12-mile limit. The wandering searchlight hit on the group of boats while the cutter was still some distance away. Immediately the Josephine K. cast off lines and by the time the cutter reached the spot the schooner was in full flight toward the lower bay. The schooner had an auxiliary engine which was pushing it through the water at about 14 knots. The cutter was not quite so fast.

The captain of the cutter ordered his gunner to fire the customary three rounds from the one-pounder. The three blank rounds had no effect, so three shots were fired across the schooner's bows. Still the schooner ignored the cutter's signals and was gaining steadily on the coast guard vessel.

First Shot Is Effective. The gunner trained his piece on the schooner. It was a cloudy night, but the general visibility was good. The first shot crashed squarely through the inclosed bridge. The boat's speed slackened and it finally pulled to a dead halt. When the cutter drew abreast it was discovered that the gunner had hit Capt. Cluett.

Immediately a wireless message was sent to the Coast Guard base at Stapleton and Cutter No. 100 sped to the scene with Dr. C. B. Etter of the Marine Hospital to see what could be done for the wounded man.

Meantime Cutter No. 150 had been dispatched from Rockaway Point to aid No. 145 in rounding up the contraband fleet. No. 180 took the schooner to the anchorage at Red Hook while No. 145

EX-SENATOR ENDS LIFE

EDWARD I. EDWARDS.

Went back to sea to look for the barge and tug. The crews of these vessels had not moved from the scene of their discovery. They also were taken to the anchorage and held there incommunicado for the rest of the night and all yesterday.

Eight men were seized on the Josephine K. eight on the tug and three on the barge. The captain of the tug was John Ambrose and the captain of the scow, Mario Laudi.

About 1400 cases of liquor were seized aboard the scow.

Capt. Gabbett said the Josephine K. was a notorious liquor runner. It is 110 feet long.

Canada Asks for Information on the Subject.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The Canadian Government wants information from the American Government on the Coast Guard action in firing on the Josephine K. off the Jersey coast Saturday.

Hume Wrong, Canadian Charge d'Affaires, made the request today in a conference with Assistant Secretary of State at the State Department. No report on the incident had been received from the Treasury, which has jurisdiction over the Coast Guard, at the time.

Previously, however, Assistant Secretary Lowman of the Treasury had called at the White House. He issued a statement saying: "The Coast Guard was performing its statutory duty in prevention of smuggling in the capture of the Canadian schooner."

"It is regrettable the Captain lost his life, but it was simply an incident to the transaction," he continued. "I feel sure the Coast Guard did not fire with intention of taking life but to prevent the rum runner escaping."

"Apparently the Canadian rum runner was violating the laws of the United States which 'it is the duty of the Coast Guard to enforce under mandates from the Congress of the United States.'"

Lowman said a Coast Guard cutter caught the rum runner transferring a cargo of liquor to a scow and a small motorboat well within the 12-mile limit and just outside New York Harbor. He said the cutter hoisted her pennant, whereupon the rum runner tried to escape.

The rum runner was not only well within the 12-mile limit but was making direct contact with American boats from the shore, including a garbage scow, on which was found part of a cargo; a tug that had one scow in tow, and also a motorboat which was alongside," Lowman said. "The motorboat escaped but the rum runner, scow and tug were seized."

British Boat Captured After Being Hit by Shell.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 26.—A full load of liquor, the British motor vessel Temelacodus from St. Johns, N. F., was captured today in Port Pond Bay by a Coast Guard patrol boat. A one-pound shell from the patrol boat struck the vessel, a fuel tank aboard the liquor vessel and caused the engine room to be flooded with gasoline.

18 MONTHS FOR STEALING AUTO

Chicagoan Pleads Guilty of Driving Machine to St. Louis.

Ernest G. Sears and Blain T. Gaskill of Chicago, jointly charged with stealing an automobile there and driving it to St. Louis, appeared before Federal Judge Paris today. Sears pleaded guilty and Gaskill not guilty. A technical error in the presentation of the Government's case resulted in a directed verdict of acquittal for Gaskill. Sears was then sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary.

The indictment charged the men with stealing a Ford sedan, serial number A-2529542. The automobile was identified as Gaskill's trial by a slightly different number, A-2529548.

UNION ELECTRIC AGAIN INSISTS ON FILL VALUATION

Wants Property Outside State Included in Any Public Service Commission Rate Changes.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 26.—

Another demand for a full valuation of property of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. before the Public Service Commission makes any order affecting rates was placed before the commission today by counsel for the company.

The demand in the form of a motion filed at the resumption of the hearing on the rate case, also insisted on valuation of Union Electric property outside the state, including the Cahokia and Ventana (Ill.) water plants and the Kankuk (La.) hydro-electric plant, which supply power in Missouri.

The commission adjourned to consider the motion which was unusual in that the commission has never been called on previously to value property outside the state. It was estimated that such a full valuation would require probably five years with the facilities now at the disposal of the commission.

The proceedings now before the commission are the result of a petition filed by the City of St. Louis more than two years ago, asking for an audit of the company's property and earnings, to determine whether rates should be reduced for residence consumers.

The company contends that the commission has no legal power to order an audit of the company's property on the basis of a valuation in which the theory of reproduction new is considered.

Theodore Rasseur, attorney for the company, declared the evidence now before the commission, including the audit by the commission accountants, was not sufficient for a decision, and that it was the duty of the commission either to dismiss the proceeding or to order a full valuation.

Commissioner J. H. Porter took exception to the attack upon the evidence. Referring to Rasseur's contention that an error of possibly several million dollars might result from using the physical property inventory of the 1915 valuation as a base for the audit, Porter pointed out that the commission and company now were not more than $500,000 apart on the original valuation.

The commissioner recalled that testimony of F. J. Boehm, vice president of the Union Electric, earlier in the hearing, corroborated the methods of the engineering accountants and city engineers in estimating reproduction cost of the property, and the depreciation, both of which were attacked as unjustified and inaccurate by Rasseur.

Boehm testified reproduction cost of the present property now would be about 25 per cent more than the original cost. Chief Accountant Harold Ross of the commission had used index numbers to convert original cost into reproduction cost, and the average of his calculations gave a reproduction cost that was 26 per cent more than original cost.

Porter pointed out that while Rasseur was challenging the accuracy of this estimate, Boehm, in his testimony, had admitted the depreciation at $10,000,000, based on his detailed knowledge of the property.

Rasseur said he preferred to consider the argument in support of the motion for a full valuation, and would take up the points suggested by Commissioner Porter later.

While the company now is attacking the use of the commission's findings in the 1915 valuation as a base for present value estimates, it took a different position on the sufficiency of that evidence in seeking a delay in a valuation decision in the 1915 case.

The company, in a brief submitted to the commission in the 1915 case, in which deferring of a valuation finding was suggested, stated "the company will stipulate now that on any and all occasions hereafter, whenever any question as to valuation arises, the engineers and accountants reports and all of the evidence submitted in cases Nos. 653 and 711 (the 1915 valuation), shall be considered in evidence in all future proceedings before this commission, or before any court."

MOVE TO OUST 3 ON POWER BOARD GETS APPROVAL

Senate Judiciary Group, 7 to 5, Votes for Walsh Resolution Without Any Amendment.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Over the protest of Senators Deneen, Gillett and Hastings, all Republicans, the Senate Judiciary Committee today approved without amendment the Walsh resolution requesting the District Attorney of the District of Columbia to institute quo warranto proceedings against Chairman George Otis Smith, Marcel Garsaud and Claude L. Draper of the Federal Power Commission, whose appointments have been challenged by a majority of the Senate.

The members of the committee voting for the resolution were Chairman Norris, Senators Blaine and Steiwer, Republicans, and Senators Walsh of Montana, Kings, Dill, Stephens and Bratton, Democrats.

Walsh said that he would report the resolution for the committee today.

Attempt to Delay Action Fails. Senate Hearings, standard Republican from Delaware, sought to delay action on the resolution by moving to refer it to a subcommittee with instructions to investigate whether the Senate was within its rights in reconsidering the nominations. This motion was defeated, 6 to 5.

The resolution merely requests the District Attorney to institute the quo warranto proceedings. Walsh said the Senate was without authority to direct that official to institute judicial action.

When asked what steps he would take if the District Attorney refused to comply with the request, Walsh said that was a bridge to be crossed later. He pointed out that the district code, which authorizes quo warranto proceedings against Federal officials, also provides that an "interested party" can institute such proceedings if the District Attorney declines to act.

Senate "Interested Party."

"Whether the Senate is an 'interested party,' I am not prepared to say at the present time," Walsh said. "That is another bridge."

The Senate voted to reconsider the nominations of Smith, Garsaud and Draper, after the three officials had hastily dismissed Charles Russell, solicitor of the old commission, and William V. King, former chief accountant. King has been reinstated by the new commission.

Senatorial supporters of Russell, King have charged repeatedly that the two "faithful public officials" were summarily discharged because of their controversy with Frank E. Bonner, the executive secretary of the old commission, according to senatorial criticism was two friendly with private power interests seeking ill-effects from the commission.

The nominations of the three commissioners have been referred to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, but Chairman Coughlin has announced that he does not think the committee will act on the nominations until after the Senate has voted on the Walsh resolution. Senator Borah has suggested that the legal case would be stronger if the nominations were rejected by the Senate.

RUBBER BALLOONS SAVE PLANE

By the Associated Press.

FELIXSTOWE, Suffolk, England, Jan. 26.—Squadron Leader Goodwin of the Royal Air Force today risked his life in a successful demonstration of a device to remove some of the element of danger in the landing of an airplane.

His plane was equipped with rubber balloons and bottles of compressed air. When he opened special doors in the fuselage the balloons were automatically inflated and pushed out under the wings. The plane almost sank in the sea when he brought it down, but the mechanism worked and the ship rose to float safely on the waves. Goodwin was not hurt.

ATTACKS YOUNG WOMAN WITH BLACKJACK IN LAW OFFICE

Man Gains Admission With Request to Use Phone; Victim a Student.

Miss Ruth E. Goetz, 26 years old, a law student, was struck on the head with a blackjack yesterday morning by a young man, who gained admission to an office in the Paul Brown Building, where she was studying, by inquiring for a man unknown there and requesting use of a telephone directory to find him.

Miss Goetz, the daughter of Professor John J. Goetz of the Mountaineer District, 5242 Devonshire avenue, fought the youth, following him into the hall, where he screams attracted George F. Buckley, who occupies another office on the seventh floor. The intruder dropped his weapon and fled.

The young woman was treated for lacerations of the scalp and a slight concussion elsewhere. The youth had inquired at his office for a man unknown to him a short time before he heard Miss Goetz's cries for help.

The inauguration of the campaign of civil disobedience by which the Nationalists have hoped to win outright independence for India.

Many Letters to Gandhi. Gandhi in prison has received thousands of letters from all parts of the world. Many are from Americans, some eulogizing him as a divinely endowed saint and others condemning him as a crank and a fanatic. One from a Missouri farmer addresses him as "Dear Saint," another as "Your Holiness." There are many missives from American women, seeking advice and even medical counsel.

Others ordered released by the Viceroy include Vallabhai Patel, V. J. Patel, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru and Mrs. Naidu, who was at one time in supreme charge of the independence movement.

Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the All-Indian National Congress when the civil disobedience campaign was begun, was released from prison at Allahabad. Mahadev Desai, secretary of Congress, was released from the Bhamrat jail.

Indian Nationalists today celebrated the first anniversary of their declaration of independence. Congress members marched through Bombay carrying flags and shouting Nationalist slogans with little interference from police.

The Viceroy's announcement had a favorable reception in the Bombay markets. On the stock exchange some of the larger scrips rose 20 points.

CHASE BANK HEAD TELLS WAY TO END STOCK GAMBLING

Albert H. Wiggin Would Keep Federal Reserve Rates Above Commercial Quotations.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A "firmer policy" which would maintain the Federal Reserve discount rate higher than the market rate on commercial paper, and higher rates on bond borrowing than on commercial borrowing, were suggested today by Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank of New York, as possible steps to prevent stock speculating booms.

Testifying before the Senate Banking Committee, Wiggin attributed the 1929 Wall Street collapse to the "debauch of speculation" that reached a climax and stopped. "It was not due, in his opinion, to any evil in the banking system."

"A stiffer policy on rates and different open market operation might have reduced the extremes with which speculation went," he said. Questioned by Senator Walcott (Rep.), Connecticut, who presided in the absence of Chairman Glass, who was suffering from a cold, Wiggin said if the national banking and Federal Reserve act were to be amended, he would liberalize them rather than enact additional restrictions.

Declaring commercial paper in volume was not adequate today, the financier also suggested an amendment to the law to make Clearing House certificates available as collateral to Reserve Member Banks, limiting this to cities of 500,000 population and with not fewer than 10 Clearing House Associations.

Three men and two women were armed with revolvers who escaped with about $500 in cash.

 Joseph and Meyer Berg, owners of the company which operates a store at 4100 Easton avenue, and Joseph Cohen, an insurance company, were bound with rope and forced to lie on the floor. Miss Bernice Goldford and Miss Loretta Kottman, employees, were locked torn from the walls.

 Most of the money, taken from

Police are searching for Charles Williams, Junior at the Goldman Building, 509 Pine street, who was carried to the basement on a freight elevator, battered open and robbed of $696. Five holdups with deadly weapons also were reported yesterday and today.
 The safe, weighing about 350 pounds, was the property of the J.
 R. Simpson Clothing Co. on the fourth floor. Williams' overcoat and overalls were found in the basement, and he did not appear for work today. His wife said she had not seen him since Friday when he left his home at 1803 Gay avenue, East St. Louis, but said she had received a note from him yesterday stating "I won't be home, I'm going away."
 The looted safe was found by police and Norman Reinherdtson, manager of the company, was notified and reported the amount taken.

$248 Robbery of Grocery. Earl Ritchey, proprietor of a grocery at 6603 St. Louis avenue, Wednesday, was robbed of $248 by two armed men shortly after he opened the store today.

Other holdups with deadly weapons: Filling station, 2124 Seventh boulevard, $24; bakery of Mrs. Irene Schmidt, 1554 Hobart street, $1; taxi cab, 908 North Sarah street, $22; Mrs. Hattie Buchart, 4838 Greer avenue, $75.
 Trying to catch a burglar who had robbed his home several times recently, Walter Wisniewski, 3725 St.
 Louis avenue, turned out his lights, picked up half a brick and hid near the back door last night.
 Seeing the rays of a flashlight in the house after waiting more than an hour, he waited until the burglar reached the back door.
 Wisniewski struck him with the half-brick. The man was dazed but ran, escaping with $2 after a chase of several blocks.
 Police who observed a Negro burglar in the 4400 block of Page boulevard caught him and took him to the Deer Street Station for questioning. Shortly afterward, Mrs. Olga Urberger, 4558 Newberry terrace, reported she had been accosted by a Negro who had tried to seize her purse. She identified the prisoner, who denied the charge.

Grocery Burglars Caught. Two youths found in the rear of a chain grocery at 3427 Blair ave- nue were captured by police who discovered a window had been opened. Samuel Tomik, manager, reported $68 had been taken and half the amount was found in the pockets of one of the prisoners. Booked as Harold Cox, 1387 Branch street. A steel jimmy was found under the coat of his companion who said he was Martin Deansie, 2310 Pine street. Both admitted the burglary, police said.

Mrs. Dolly Strickland, 4065 Humphrey street, reported earrings valued at $700, a $65 bracelet and $20 in cash were taken from her home.

 ly, 4028 Flora boulevard.
 R. R. Belleville, conductor of a Rodamont street car, was held up by three armed men as the car approached the Westlawn Loop this morning and robbed of about $75, chiefly the proceeds of weekly ticket sales.
 E. V. Krieger, operator of a one-man street car on the Creve Coeur line, was held up at Adie road by two armed men who took $50.

 didate for re-election April 7. He is seeking his third four-year term.
 The Election Commissioners re-want to do the right thing at all times."

 "Oh, no, no, no," was Thomasson's next assertion. "I did not make that trip against my will.
 That was planned—all planned.
 We went."
 Mrs. Thomasson kicked her husband in the ankle, and said, "Just say we've been on a motor trip, without mentioning the details, and have returned home."
 "That's the way to put it!"
 Thomasson exclaimed. "That's a good idea. Just say we were on a short motor trip."
 "When did you get back?"
 "Saturday night," Mrs. Thomasson said. Her husband interrupted:
 "No, it was much later than that. It was almost dawn." Mrs.
 Thomasson took the reins of the conversation again and explained,
 "Well, to be exact, it was 2:30 a. m." Thomasson was asked about the report that he demanded police protection in a Carthage hotel and was dragged out with his heels digging into the floor.
 "That was all wrong," he quavered. "I was not dragged out. I didn't call for aid. I didn't see any bellboy in there. The newspapers said a bellboy saw me dragged."
 Mrs. Thomasson nudged her husband with her toe again. "Just say," she directed, "that we couldn't find suitable accommodations at the hotel."
 "Well now," said Thomasson,
 "we don't want to say anything against the hotel."
 Telling of their "second honeymoon," Mrs. Thomasson said: "We left here about 5 o'clock Thursday morning. We had a meeting place, but you can say we left from this house. We drove directly to Kansas City, stopping for luncheon at a barbecue stand along the road. We stayed in Kansas City about three hours, but we couldn't find a satisfactory place to stay."
 Thomasson murmured something of which only the word
 "Denver" was distinguishable.
 "No," said the young wife, "no, indeed, we didn't go that far."
 From Carthage to Kansas City.
 "Then we went to Carthage and when the accommodations were not satisfactory came back to Kansas City and stayed at the Blackstone Hotel there," continued Mrs.
 Thomasson. "We rode around Friday and spent Friday night in Illinois."
 "Where?"
 "Oh, a little town," Thomasson spoke up. His wife kicked his ankle again.
 "I don't recall the name of the town," said she.
 "Then Thomasson announced:
 "You know, when we sent those letters, that ended our relationship with our attorneys. They are not authorized to make any statement about us now. We haven't told them we're back and we're not going to. It's none of their business now."
 (The letters referred to directed the attorneys in the case to dismiss Thomasson's annulment suit and allied litigation of Mrs. Thomasson for alimony.)
 At this point a Post-Dispatch photographer entered the room.
 "Put your arm around me, Hughie," said Mrs. Thomasson, sliding over closer to him on the divan.
 Without waiting she drew one limp, unresisting arm around her neck. "Come over here, Hughie," she added, tugging at his sleeve.
 Thus they posed.
 Then Thomasson talked a little about business and Mrs. Thomasson, four times married, about her 2-year-old daughter Eileen, who is living with them. She has two other children. Thomasson said he was going downtown and the reporter offered him transportation.
 "No, no," said Mrs. Thomasson.
 "The chauffeur will take you downtown if you have some business affairs to attend to.

The arrest early yesterday at Julian avenue and Goodfellow boulevard of two armed youths, who told police they were preparing to hold up a drug store nearby and said they had been driven there by a young man who had stolen an automobile, resulted in the recovery of the machine and the arrest of two young men who confessed the burglary of a chain grocery at Potosi, Mo., Jan. 16.
 The first prisoners said they were Raymond Newman, 3617 Cook avenue, and Russell King, 2603
 Slattery street. They named Floyd Dunlap, 2514 Coleman street, and after his arrest a youth booked as Fred Haines of the Cook avenue address was taken into custody.
 Dunlap said he stole the machine
 Jan. 11 from its parking space in front of 4207 Westminster place, the home of the owner, D. C. Pierson. The confession of Dunlap and Haines stated they had sold supplies from the Potosi grocery in St. Louis for about $150.

SECOND MAN GETS 25 YEARS FOR ASSAULTING POSTMASTER Wesley Wright Pleads Guilty of Attack on Official at Gibson City, Mo.

Wesley Wright, Gibson, Mo., was sentenced to 25 years in Leavenworth penitentiary today when he pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Faris of assaulting and robbing Postmaster William Curtis of Gibson. The sentence was mandatory under Federal statutes.
 Lemma F. Brooks returned a similar sentence a month ago. Ira Blackwood, a former convict, he was tried later on the same charge.
 Curtis was waylaid by three men last Oct. 23 as he walked from his general store to his home. The robbers beat him with a gas pipe, robbed him of $700 and left him on a railroad track. Blackwood and Brooks were arrested by Postoffice inspectors who trailed a delapidated automobile which had been seen in Gibson. They implicated Wright.

Son Born to Harold Lloyd. HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 24.— Harold Lloyd Jr. was born last night and placed in an incubator. The father is Harold Lloyd, the movie comedian.

Thomasson said in response to a last question, "Oh, yes, I'm happy.
 Why shouldn't I be?"
 It developed later that the "business affairs" concerned the transfer of the real estate deeds to Mrs.
 Thomasson.

There was no discussion today as to whether Mrs. Thomasson would attempt to repurchase the $17,000 worth of furs and the $72,000 worth of jewelry which she ordered after her marriage and which were returned to stock by the retailers when Thomasson left her and re-

 reorganization of Lorenzo E. An-receivership and under suspension from stock exchanges, awaits only the completion of an audit now in progress, it was said today.

From an authoritative source it was learned that the New York brokerage firm of E. A. Pierce & Co. was prepared to undertake rehabilitation of the stranded firm as soon as the amount of its net assets is determined by the audit.
 Receivers Charles D. P. Hamil-who have told reporters the firm is "entirely solvent," said the audit would be completed in the next two or three days. Meanwhile, it was learned, several employees of the firm have been advised to "sit tight," and not seek other employment for the time being.

Representatives of civic organia luncheon at the Missouri Ath-

 Government inspection of packing

 The committee whose names are signed to the invitations includes Mrs. M. D. Curran, Mrs. George
 Gelliford, Carleton S. Abell and Dr.
 Louis C. Boislignere.

The meeting follows a campaign of Government-inspected packing plants to call public attention to the fact that only about half of the meat sold in St. Louis is subject to Government inspection.
 Packers engaged in interstate busi-spection.

 Barnes & Barnes Electric Co., which sought to restrain the union from withdrawing men from a job at the Melbourne Hotel Annex, were dropped at a meeting Friday night for alleged infraction of various union rules.

The citation against Eisfelder charged that he worked with non-union men while in the employ of Barnes & Barnes; that he was instrumental in getting certain contractors to object to the insurance phase and other objectionable features of the agreement; that he testified "falsely and maliciously" at the injunction hearing, slandering officers of the union, and that he carried a revolver and threatened Orville E. Jennings, international vice president, and Henry Ko-nig, business manager of the union.

Krieg, was charged, acted in the dual capacity of superintendent and foreman, contrary to union rules; that he permitted nonunion men to work on his jobs; that he conspired with orders to "frame" fraudulent evidence and testimony for use in the injunction trial; that he testified falsely and maliciously, and that he tried to bring about dissension in the union by slanderous statements against its officers.
 Eisfelder said today that he testified only to the truth at the injunction hearing and denied the other charges. "The only purpose of this is to intimidate the rest of the members of the union by making an example of us," he said.
 "When I carried a gun I was a police officer in St. Louis county and was authorized by law. I never threatened anybody."
 "I am not opposed to organized labor when its principles are applied judiciously, but I am opposed to any man or any set of men or any body of men that sets up a combine in restraint of trade. Jen-

Central Trades Declares 35 Per Cent of City's Population Would Be Affected.

The Central Trades and Labor Union yesterday adopted a resolution opposing the application of the Public Service Co. for removal of the car tracks from Gravois avenue, which is to be widened, between Russell and Grand boulevards.

The resolution asserts that 35 per cent of the city's population would be directly or indirectly affected by this "drastic change," and that value of property owned by the working classes would be depressed by it. The company has proposed substitution of buses, to avoid the $500,000 expense of shifting its tracks. Central Trades and Labor Union will be represented by its Legislative Committee at hearings before the State board.
 The Allen Addition Protective Association, representing the district bounded by Eighteenth and Victor streets and Jefferson and Geyer avenues, has notified the Board of Public Service and State Public Service Commission of its opposition to the removal of the tracks and the consequent rerouting of the Bellefontaine line.

Robbers Escape After They Drive Through Fence and Into Porch.

A chase through South St. Louis and St. Louis county, during which nine shots were fired by police, ended early yesterday when a taxicab, pursued by a police car, crashed through a fence and into the porch of John Tate at 609 Vulcan street.

Four robbers who had taken $15
 from the chauffeur, August H.
 Goldman, 323 North Eighteenth street, escaped. Goldman said that he had held him up after getting in his cab at Broadway and Russell boulevard. One of them took his cap and drove the machine. The attention of Patrolman Potts and Wedemeier was attracted to the cab by the fact that Goldman was bareheaded. When they attempted to stop the machine to question the occupants the chase began.

Chicago Paper Says Mrs. Black-

 Many Victims.

72-YEAR-OLD MAN KILLED BY STREET CAR

James Gibson the Victim—Policeman Hurt When Auto
 Crashes Into House.

By the Associated Press.
 CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Reports that Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Black-lidge, former Internal Revenue Collector, was only one of many prominent persons swindled out of huge amounts by a ring of confidence men were circulated today.
 The Herald and Examiner says an unidentified United States Senator lost $68,000 in a racing swindle, while David Tinkham, an Englishman, was defrauded of $33-000 in a stock deal.

A Chicago business leader, the paper adds, was swindled out of $90,000 but regained $32,000 in a compromise with the swindlers, who involved him in a faro game—a scheme similar to the one in which Mrs. Blacklidge reported that she lost $50,000 borrowed from Edward R. Litsinger, prominent Chicagoan, in a Springfield (Ill.) hotel. Julius Frank, a German subject, lost $50,000 and a dozen other men, all prominent in business, politics or society, paid amounts ranging from $1000 to $60,000.

Mrs. Blacklidge, who resigned her Federal position Saturday, plans to leave Chicago in a few days to recuperate. She is now in a Chicago hospital. She has received hundreds of telegrams and letters from friends, offering assistance.

Attorney David D. Stansbury said he had been called into the case in the interests of Mrs. Black-lidge. He was shown a photostatic copy of a penciled memorandum found Saturday in the Springfield hotel where Mrs. Blacklidge said she won $207,500 in paper profits at faro two days before she borrowed from Litsinger. Sums of addition, subtraction and division were based on a total of $207,500.
 Stansbury said it was a "strong piece of corroborative evidence."

The faro swindlers, the Herald and Examiner says, operated in three divisions. The newspaper's description of the organization follows:

"One (group of swindlers) is at Akron, O., another works Springfield, Peoria, and Canadian cities, and the third is at Denver, led by the notorious Chapple Phillips and Jackie French.

"The Akron division has been especially successful. In the case of a Chicago business man with offices in the Mallers Building the swindlers even allowed him to hold $1700 in winnings for several days, when the man returned he was
 "taken" for $15,000."

State's Attorney Swanson today made public a report of brief experts in his office dealing with possible prosecution. The report said there appeared to be an "excellent charge of robbery," but that the venue in the case was clearly in Sangamon county. There is only one other possible charge to be made, that a "conspiracy charge, and the report points out it would be necessary to prove that Mrs. Blacklidge was acting in common design with the persons who seized the money.

$83,419 GIVEN RED CROSS FUND HERE TO DATE

Increase of $2941 Since Saturday's Report on Progress of Campaign to Raise $220,000.

A total of $83,419 was reported today in contributions to the St. Louis quota of $220,000 in the Red Cross campaign to raise $10,000,000 for relief in drouth-areas. This is an increase of $2941 over the total reported Saturday.

The Midwestern branch of the Red Cross, 1709 Washington avenue, which administers relief in Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Montana, Oklahoma and Texas, has received hundreds of letters and telegrams from chapters in its area telling of the generous response to the radio appeal made last Thursday. They report particularly a stimulation of small gifts.

President Hoover and John Barton Payne, national chairman of the Red Cross, have received personally many small contributions as a result of the radio appeal. Gifts sent directly to the national officers range from a $1 bill from a man who just couldn't pass up a Red Cross to $15,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walters. Walters is chairman of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad.

Locally, however, a slight slackening in contributions was noted today. The largest to come in this morning was a gift of $500 from the Curlee Clothing Co.

In an appeal for prompt and generous contributions made last night, John G. Lonsdale, president of the Mercantile-Commerco Bank and Trust Co., emphasized the need for funds to enable drouth sufferers to combat diseases which may become epidemic.

"Unless quick and adequate relief is extended to these people," he said, "they will be unable to combat influenza and other diseases in their weakened condition." Contributions should be sent to Oliver F. Richards, treasurer, St. Louis Red Cross Relief Fund, Mercantile-Commerco Bank and Trust Co.

In making a report to the midwestern branch today, a field representative in Oklahoma described a typical case of a family of five persons, a farmer, his wife and three small children, living near Lawton, Ok. The family, the report stated, was found living in a drafty lean-to built of waste lumber and had not eaten for 24 hours before Red Cross representatives called. Previously they had been subsisting on a few handfuls of beans a day.

William Baxter Jr., manager of the midwestern area, pointed out today that suffering is just beginning to be felt by the independent farmer who has been able to maintain himself without aid longer than tenant farmers in the plantation states.

Red Cross Collects $2,205,000 on $10,000,000 Drouth Relief Fund.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The Red Cross has collected $2,205,000 of its $10,000,000 drouth relief fund. Contributions mounted sharply after the radio broadcast Thursday night, $400,000 being received Friday and more than $450,000 Saturday. Two California cities, Pasadena and Santa Monica, filled their quotas. A $1000 check came from the Grand Lodge of Masons in Arkansas. The State hit hardest by drouth.

FINDS MORE OPTIMISM OVER UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION

Chairman Woods of Hoover Committee Comments on Its Latest Report.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—More optimism over the unemployment situation prevails among business leaders says Chairman Woods, of the President's Committee for Employment. His statement was made today in connection with the committee findings that between 4,500,000 and 5,000,000 workers were idle at the end of the first week in December. "The highest business authorities are considerably more cheerful over the prospect at present than they were when that count was made," he said. "Although the utmost caution in making statements now characterizes the attitude of responsible executives, the sentiment has been instilled in a number of our recent communications and conferences with leaders actually in touch with the business trend."

Organized community efforts to provide emergency employment still constitute one of the chief sources of wage payments to replace the loss of employment attributed to industrial slackening.

Best Remedy for Common Coughs, Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a severe cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle. Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germladen phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and is one of the greatest healing agents for incipient bronchial coughs and other severe coughs due to colds. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Acidity

Runs Down More Persons than all the Motor Cars in the World!

We are shocked to hear of the number of persons every day who are run down by motor cars. Yet there's a condition that affects human happiness far more and which, because of its insidious nature, works under our very noses, apparently unnoticed. It goes by the name of Acidity. Many a run-down condition, many a case of "nerves" and sleeplessness is but a case of acidity. For, when, as a result of our unnatural living habits, the stomach secretes too much acid, it does many things to us. It causes acid indigestion, with fullness, stomach discomfort, heartburn, and nausea—a condition which in time may result in frequent attacks of indigestion. The acid also sets up fermentation in the intestines. In this toxic breed which permeates the whole system, this condition saps strength and vitality, makes us feel tired all the time, and irritable and it rages our nerves to the point where we can't sleep at night, exhausted as we may be.

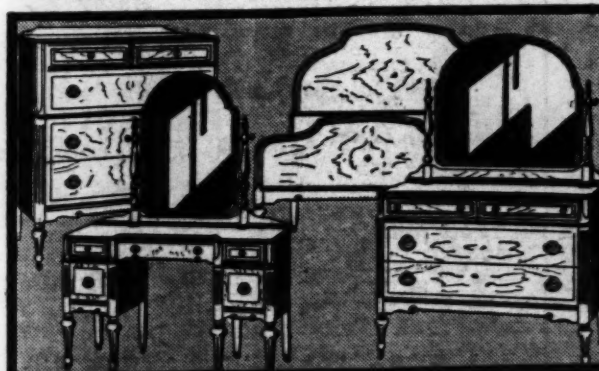

The modern and true way to help acidity is by the release of active oxygen within the intestinal tract. This is now accomplished by an amazing and harmless white tablet developed in Germany by the world's foremost pharmaceutical house, Magnesia Oxidiz, upon contact with the gastric juice, generate nascent or active oxygen. The free oxygen does the three things necessary to correct acidity in the right way. It stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, which keeps the acid in check. It helps correct fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It stimulates peristalsis, or the natural movement of the bowels. All these effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity and only Magnesia Oxidiz supply them, because it is the only Magnesia product known to science that, when taken internally, releases oxygen to the system.

Make This Acidity Test!

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxidiz from Walgreen Drug Store, or any other good drug store. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amuse you, return the bottle to the drug store and he will refund your money promptly and in full.

'ACCOMPLICE' SAYS BROTHERS IS NOT LINGLE SLAYER
Man Held for Another Killing Meets St. Louis Gangster in Jail.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Frank H. Bell, who says he was an accomplice in the slaying of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter, and Leo V. Brothers, who denies it, met yesterday in a jail corridor. Both indicated it was the first time.

Brothers, a former St. Louis gangster, who is awaiting trial for the Lingle killing, while Bell is awaiting execution for the slaying of a restaurant proprietor. However, he told the coroner's jury in the Lingle case that he drove two men to the scene of the slaying and that they met the killer there. Bell's attorney introduced the two, and they shook hands.

"Bell, did you ever see this man before?" asked one of Brothers' attorneys.
Bell shook his head.
The State's Attorney's office has publicly doubted Bell's story that he drove Richard Sullivan and Joe Trautman in an automobile to Michigan avenue and Randolph street last June 9 to meet the man assigned to kill Lingle. Bell said Brothers was not the man.

He needs special help to build them!

Now, when he is just a few months old, you should make sure your baby gets enough of one special factor. Loss of this factor now will harm his health and appearance all through life; for without it, he cannot build the right kind of bones and teeth.

Physicians, aware of this danger, tell mothers how to provide enough of the important bone-and-tooth building factor—Vitamin D. Outdoor sunbaths—plenty of sunshine on baby's bare skin—is one way. But at this season when baby is kept indoors so much—bundled up well when he does go out—sunshine alone cannot provide him with a protective amount of Vitamin D. Every day mother must see that he receives an inner sunbath. This she can give him with the other rich, natural source of Vitamin D. Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil. Many physicians particularly ask mothers to get Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil. They know they can depend on Squibb's to be rich in Vitamin D and also in Vitamin A, the factor which promotes growth and helps babies to resist colds.

Squibb's is the vitamin-tested and vitamin-protected oil. It is guaranteed to be rich in vitamins. Just ask your druggist for Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil. Plain or Mint-flavored.

Southern Pacific Presses
Proposal Before I. C. C.—
Other Lines Object.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Conflicting views on the attempt of the Southern Pacific System to gain control of the St. Louis Southwestern Lines were presented today to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Southern Pacific, which has a personal contract to purchase a majority of the Southwestern's stock, contends the program had the unanimous support of organizations representing shippers in the territory. The Illinois Central, to which the commission proposed to link the southwestern system approved the program. The Southern Pacific said. The opposition of the Missouri Pacific and Frisco System to the transaction, it declared, constituted "admission" of the fact that effective railroad competition would be increased rather than diminished by the unification.

The Rock Island Railroad, in a qualified disapproval, suggested that proposed sale of the Southwestern be a "major operation in the history of Western carriers," and would result in "a radical realignment and regrouping of established transportation systems. If the Commission protects the Rock Island's right to use freight routes over the Southwestern and prevent what it terms the "conservation of long hauls exclusively to the Southern Pacific" the Rock Island said its protest could be disregarded.

The Missouri Pacific contended the petition sought to "divert north and south traffic from existing lines" for the benefit of the Southern Pacific and that the purchasing carrier would endeavor to "hold to its own rails a considerable proportion of traffic that now goes to other lines."

Individual holders of minority stock in the Southwestern, W. E. Meyer and L. R. Eastman, joined in the contest with the demand that the Commission require the Southern Pacific to purchase the outstanding holdings of the smaller lines.

DE FOREST SUES R. C. A. UNDER SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAW
Alleges Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade Over Various Radio Patents.

By the Associated Press. WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 26.—Charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, the De Forest Radio Corporation filed a bill in U. S. District Court against the Radio Corporation of America today, alleging conspiracy in restraint of trade.

The bill particularly mentions the "superheterodyne" circuit as the basis for the charges. It alleges that many radio set manufacturers are "coerced, intimidated or compelled" by the R. C. A. to become licensees of the R. C. A. patents.

The bill asks that R. C. A. be enjoined from using the patents to the injury of the plaintiff, from unfair competition, from intimidation and compulsion by threat of patent infringement suit, and from forcing breach of contract between radio set manufacturers and other concerns, particularly customers of the plaintiff.

A temporary injunction covering the same restrictions and damages also was sought. The suit was filed by Charles G. Munn, president of the De Forest Corporation, through counsel.

ENDS HIS LIFE BY SHOOTING
R. A. Bywaters Was Presiding Judge of Platte County Court.

By the Associated Press. PLATTE CITY, Mo., Jan. 26.—The body of Richard A. Bywaters, 33 years old, Presiding Judge of the Platte County Court, with a bullet wound in the head, was found this morning in a crib in the barn of his farm home near Camden Point. His revolver, with one shell exploded, was found nearby. Preliminary investigation by the coroner indicated suicide.

Judge Bywaters, who took office Jan. 1, is thought to have gone to the barn about daybreak. His wife awoke shortly afterward and discovered he was missing. His body was found by a hired hand. Financial worries were advanced as a suicide motive, the Bywaters farm being advertised for sale under foreclosure. His widow, four sons and a daughter survive. Bywaters was a Democrat, and it is expected his place will be filled by a Republican, on appointment by the Governor.

BRUENING SAYS GERMANY MUST WATCH PENNIES

Chancellor Declares That Is Way Other Nations, Defeated in War, Have Climbed Back.

By the Associated Press.
COLOGNE, Germany, Jan. 25.—Chancellor Bruening in some of the strongest language he has used since taking office, yesterday admonished the German people to forget about reparations revision for awhile and concentrate on putting public and private finances in order.

He spoke here and also in Dueren.
 "It is not only through reparations burdens that we have fallen into financial misfortune," said the Chancellor, "but to a very large measure through letting ourselves imagine that, despite a lost war, despite huge sacrifices of blood and treasure, both state and individual could live better than in pre-war times."

"We have indulged in building projects everywhere—in the Reich, in states and in communities—which we could not afford before the war, we have spent hundreds of millions of marks for things that later turned out impractical and unproductive."

"There is nothing left for us to do but to follow the fiscal example of other nations which have climbed back after a lost war—namely, to consider earnestly what a penny is worth."

The people themselves would have to see this through, the Chancellor said, without leaving it to others.

"There is nothing more dangerous," he continued, "than the public belief that the state can and must bear everything."

Rebuking those who clamor for quick action on revision of the Young plan, Bruening said they seemed to have forgotten everything that the nation had gone through. Germans were agreed, he concluded, that a stirring up of reparations questions would be the silliest move Germany could make.

House Speaker Says Islanders Deserve No Benefits From Present Relations.

MANILA, Jan. 25.—The Philippine Herald quotes Manuel Roxas, Speaker of the House, as saying in a speech at Lucena, Tayabas Province, that the Philippines have reached the maximum of economic development they can attain under American sovereignty.

Roxas, who spoke in connection with a membership campaign for the Katipunan, a new independence organization, said the principal industries must remain stagnant in the face of constant threats in America to close the American markets to the insular products.

"The Philippines," Roxas asserted, "are not deriving any benefit, whether political, social, moral or economic, from their present relations with the United States."

In a speech at Atimonan, Roxas warned the people they must mend their lazy ways if they ever expected independence, economic or political. He asserted the great majority of Filipinos worked only 100 days a year.

WOULD BAR SOVIET LUMBER
MADRID, Jan. 25.—Spanish lumber importers have protested to the Government against efforts of Soviet Russia to "dump" cheaply produced lumber on the Spanish market. The Catalanian Agricultural Institute, in calling the attention of the Government to shipments of Russian lumber now said to be available at Tarragona and other Mediterranean ports, asked that the vessels be prohibited from unloading.

It is understood the Government is favorably disposed to a bar against Russian lumber on the ground that it constitutes a menace to the Spanish lumber industry.

Astronomer Finds Signs Of Life on Planet Venus

Notes Surface Markings, Indicative of Vegetation, as Are Lines on Mars—Lowell Canal Theory Discarded.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 25.—Belief that at least two other planets in the solar system are the abode of living creatures and other planets also may be, was expressed today by Leon Campbell, astronomer at the Harvard University observatory.

"It is ridiculous to believe that our earth is the only inhabited planet," he said.

Prof. Campbell also stated that his theories relative to life on other planets, as regards Mars and Venus at least, were shared by leading astronomers.

"Our work," he added, "proves that Mars is not a cold planet in the sense that it has no life. Atmosphere as determined on Mars are found to be livable. The temperature in the middle of the day is 60 degrees above zero Fahrenheit."

"Astronomers generally agree now that Mars has some form of life. If you see evidence of vegetation you usually find that to be true. Whether the planet is suitable for the development of the higher order of intelligent life is uncertain."

"We have thrown aside the Lowell theory of man-made canals on Mars. The markings which appear through the telescope as if they might have been created by means of human effort are now thought to be natural water courses lined with foliage."

"Venus has about as good a chance of sustaining life as does Mars. 'I have seen markings there as well.'"

The Truth About Gravois

Public Service Company Plan Means Added Bus Line And Straightened Street Car Lines. Not "Elimination Of Street Cars and Substitution Of Busses."

Over 12,000 South St. Louis Car Riders Have Already Voted In Favor of Plan

BOARD OF PUBLIC SERVICE MUST CHANGE GRAVOIS PAVING PLANS

Two plans have been proposed by the Board of Public Service for paving Gravois Avenue. Neither of these plans provides for the removal of the sections of the Tower Grove and Bellefontaine lines now on Gravois. These plans must be abandoned and a new one presented, to meet the public demand for faster, more convenient street car and bus service.

Will the members of the Board of Public Service listen now to the demands of thousands of car riders for better service?

As early as last May, the Board was informed by the Public Service Company that it would request permission to re-route its street car lines off Gravois and to operate a fast bus line over that street and downtown.

In spite of this fact, the Board has failed to offer an alternate plan for the paving of Gravois, in case the Public Service Commission of Missouri grants the company's request for permission not to replace its tracks on Gravois, when widened.

The New Bus Line Serving 50,000 Additional People in South St. Louis.

Public Service Company's Plan Provides—

Added service — not curtailment of service.

A new fast bus line from Carondelet Park, down Gravois to the center of the city.

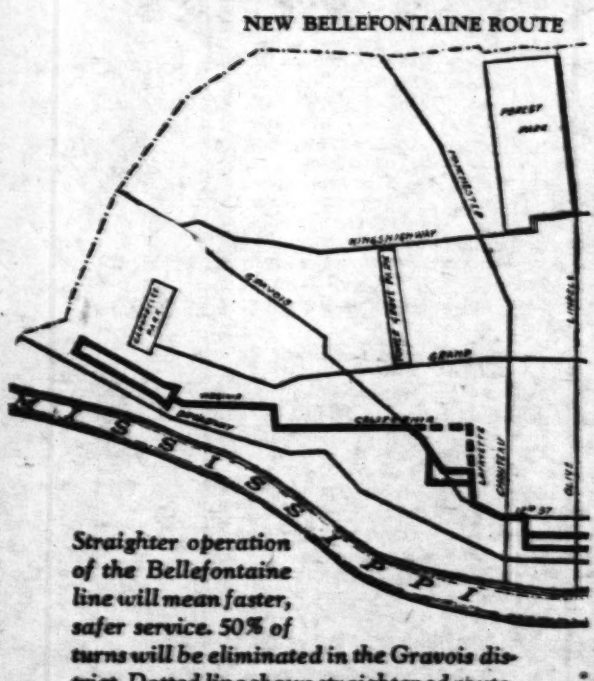

Straighter, more direct routes for the Tower Grove and Bellefontaine lines, with faster and safer operation.

FACTS ABOUT THE BALLOT

Car riders and property owners in South St. Louis were asked to vote on the company's plan to improve transportation.

17,000 ballots had been received up to noon, Sunday.

Over 12,000, nearly 75%, voted in favor of adding the proposed new bus line and straightening the Tower Grove and Bellefontaine lines.

Straighter operation of the Bellefontaine line will mean faster, safer service. 50% of turns will be eliminated in the Gravois district. Dotted line shows straightened route.

There is yet time for the Board of Public Service to present a new plan for the paving of Gravois which will insure the carrying out of that project without delay, in case permission is later granted to remove the sections of street car lines from Gravois.

If the Board fails to do this now, it may later have to accept the sole responsibility for a long delay in the completion of the Gravois widening plan.

Neither of the Board's present plans is acceptable to the car riders of South St. Louis. They will hinder transportation, rather than improve it.

MEAT DISHES WHICH PROFFER A CHANGE

Families Enjoy the Introduction of New Ways of Preparing Foods.

Notwithstanding the multiple ways of preparing meats and meat products, most homemakers adopt certain recipes for cooking the various meats and serve these dishes in rotation.

The directions which follow are for preparing some out-of-the-ordinary meat dishes.

Mock Duck.
A delicious dish from an inexpensive steak. On a round steak cut thin, place a stuffing of bread crumbs well seasoned with chopped onions, butter or other fat salt and pepper, and flavoring such as sage, celery seed, etc., if desired. Roll the steak around the stuffing and tie in several places with a string. If the steak is tough, steam or stew the roast in a casserole, in which case a cupful or more of water should be added.

Kidney Beans and Beef Stew.
Wash one cup of red kidney beans and soak overnight in cold water. Dice two ounces of salt pork and try it out until delicately browned. Cut one pound of round steak into small pieces and brown in the pork fat. Add the beans, one minced onion and one cup of strained tomato pulp. Simmer very slowly for three hours.

Veal Hearts Casserole.
Wash and trim veal hearts. Cut one sliced onion with six or eight slices of bacon until bacon is crisp. To the onion and bacon add two-thirds cup fine bread crumbs, two tablespoons water or stock, and salt and pepper to taste. Stuff the hearts with this mixture, and tie a strip of bacon across the top of each heart. Sprinkle with salt and flour and brown delicately in a little bacon fat. Place in a casserole dish. To the fat in the pan add four tablespoons flour and stir until brown. Add two cups stock or water and stir until boiling. Add one teaspoon salt and pour over hearts.

Stuffed Flank Steak.
Wipe flank steak; make a pocket in it and stuff with following:
To cooked rice add finely chopped green pepper and pimiento, drippings and sage. After filling cavity, sew with string or fasten with skewers. Dust slightly with flour; place in hot oven and sear on both sides. Reduce heat to moderate and bake one and one-half hours. Add pared potato slices with one cup boiling water and bake one hour longer.

Curry of Lamb.
For a four-and-one-half-pound cut of a fore quarter of lamb, use two tablespoons oil, one tablespoon onion, one tablespoon curry powder, one-half cup boiling water, one tablespoon flour, one and one-half cups lamb stock, one teaspoon lemon juice and one teaspoon salt.

Wash lamb clean, sear well on all sides; cover with one quart water. Bring to boiling point and boil 15 minutes; reduce heat and simmer gently until tender, about three hours. Put oil in frying pan; sauté onion to a light golden color. Stir in curry powder and flour; cook gently three minutes. Add stock gradually, stirring constantly, and let boil gently fifteen minutes. Add lamb and simmer fifteen to twenty minutes. Add lemon juice, salt and one-half cup boiling water. Serve at once.

Worth Remembering.
When making blanc mange or boiled custard, it will be easier to make a smooth mixture if the cornstarch and sugar are mixed together dry and the liquid added to them. If they are thoroughly blended, then mixed with the beaten egg and the hot milk added to the mixture, and the whole stirred constantly until boiling, the pudding will not lump. When adding chocolate, stir it into the thickened pudding and let the mixture cook over hot water until the chocolate is melted.

Use cold water for

PRUNES

No need to soak prunes overnight, nor if they're SUNSWET.

No need to cook them at all. Just put them into a dish or pan, cover with cold water, let stand a few minutes, then drain, and they're ready to eat.

Or steam them till they're fat and juicy.

Be sure that they're SUNSWET. Prunes served this way should be of the finest.

There is as much difference in prunes as in any fruit or food you buy.

SUNSWETS are the cream of California's crop, rich in digestible fruit sugar, mineral salts and valuable vitamins. Gently laxative, too. Good for every member of the family.

Sealed in 1- and 2-lb. cartons to keep them clean and fresh.

EFFECTIVE WAY TO UTILIZE LEFTOVER COOKED TURKEY

This Problem Always Confronts the Housewife in the Winter Season.

As a general thing, when fowl is served as the main dish of a festive meal, there remain leftovers which the careful housewife will desire to use in a second-day dish. Salmi of fowl is an attractive way to do it.

Salmi of Turkey.
Cut cold cooked turkey into small dice and set aside. Cook two tablespoons of bacon fat and one tablespoon each of chopped celery, onion and carrots and two tablespoons of minced raw ham. When the fat browns, add two table-

STRING BEANS WITH LEMON

Wash and remove strings from beans. With a sharp knife shred beans diagonally; cover with boiling water and cook for 30 minutes after boiling point is again reached. Drain beans, reserving one-quarter cup stock; then sauté in butter in stewpan, being careful to keep fire very low.

When butter is absorbed add one-quarter cup reserved stock together with pepper and salt and lemon juice and simmer until tender.

If ordinary flour is used instead of pastry flour in baking a cake, use two tablespoons less flour to each cup than the recipe calls for. Pastry flour is lighter in weight than ordinary flour and, therefore, requires a fuller measurement.

FOUR RACING AUTOS PILE UP; ONE DRIVER KILLED, 3 WURT

Machines Crash Making 75 Miles an Hour on Turn at Los Angeles Track.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 26.—Making a turn at 75 miles an hour, four racing cars piled up at the American Legion speedway here yesterday, killing one driver and injuring three. George Young, Milwaukee, Wis., was killed. Curly Grandel, Glendale, Cal., was injured severely and Lester Spangler of Los Angeles, and Arrol Brunner, Whittier, Cal., were the other victims.

The accident came on the twenty-ninth round of the 100-lap feature event over the five-eighths mile track. Spangler was fourth in the race at the time. His car skidded, kicking up a cloud of dust, but remaining upright. Young was unable to stop. His car struck Spangler's and swerved into the fence on the upper side of the track, where it remained poised atop the uppermost board. Brunner and Grandel also shot into the dust cloud. Grandel's car went through the rail and rolled down a 25-foot embankment. Brunner's was wrecked, but remained on the track.

Shorty Cantion, Detroit, went on to win the race in 51 minutes 23.5 seconds. He was followed by Mauri Ross, Earl Hovenden, and Stubby Stubbfield, all of Los Angeles, in that order. There were the only cars to survive.

JOBS FOR 300,000 ON U. S. AND STATE ROAD PROJECTS

Estimate Given by Federal Official Testifying in Hearing on $25,000,000 Relief Plan.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—An estimate that 300,000 men would be employed under Federal and State highway construction projects was submitted today to the House Appropriations Committee by H. H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads.

Under questioning on the Senate's $25,000,000 Red Cross relief proposal, MacDonald said that under a $100,000,000 Federal and State highway construction program 100,000 men would be directly employed and 200,000 employed indirectly in preparing materials and equipment for the work. He said he based his estimate on reports from district engineers.

Under questioning by Representative Cramton, MacDonald testified that existing and authorized State and Federal road construction, maintenance and bridge building projects would exceed $800,000,000.

There were available, he said, in State and Federal funds $437,500,000 for highway construction. He noted that much construction already was under way in the drought states and said that within a few weeks a new program for Arkansas would be undertaken.

Hyde Telle of Work, and Secretary Hyde declared the Agriculture Department was working under emergency relief measures as rapidly as possible to aid employment and relieve drought-stricken farmers.

Hyde said that to his knowledge no actual loan under the $45,000,000 drought fund for loans for seed, feed and fertilizer had been made.

"We are ready to do business, however," he added.

Of the $115,000,000 unemployment relief fund appropriated by Congress early in the session, $30,000,000 went to the states for highway building, while contracts for roads and trails in national forests already have been let, he said.

Chairman Wood of the committee explained at the beginning of the hearing that the purpose "is to obtain to the fullest possible extent all facts as to the needs of the country for funds to be used in purchase of food for those in distress."

Wood laid aside committee rules and permitted public instead of secret hearings as originally planned.

Hyde testified that the actual area affected by the drought in which crop production was less than 30 per cent of normal could be considered twice as large as Arkansas. It included that State and sections in southern and mid-western states of an equal aggregate area.

As far as the nation as a whole was affected by the drought, he said only the corn and hay crops, along with pasture, suffered. The corn crop, he said, was about 300,000,000 bushels short.

$2,500,000 PALESTINE FUND

To Be Sought of American Jews for Reconstruction Work.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Jewish leaders here yesterday at a conference decided to launch a campaign at once in which Jews in America will be asked to contribute $2,500,000 for reconstruction activities in Palestine. July 1 is set for the end of the drive.

Dr. Cyrus Adler, chairman of the American branch of the Jewish Agency, said the agency and the British Government would reach a satisfactory agreement in the revision of the Balfour white paper restricting Jews in Palestine. He said he was certain the British Government was sincere in its efforts to help rehabilitate the home land.

Poland Ratifies Match Treaty.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, Poland, Jan. 27.—The Senate has ratified the Government's agreement with the Swedish-American Match Co. by which the latter's monopoly in Poland is extended until 1965 in return for a loan to the Government of $32,400,000.

EX-JUDGE READY TO START

TERM FOR KILLING TYPIST

John W. Brady, Under Three-Year Sentence, Waits to Begin Trip to Texas Prison.

By the Associated Press.
HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Jan. 25.—

John W. Brady, 61 years old, former Judge of a Texas Appeals Court, waited at a hotel here today for papers committing him to three years' imprisonment for the fatal stabbing of Miss Lehlis Highsmith, Austin stenographer, in November, 1928.

He came here, yesterday, accompanied by his wife, who supported him throughout his trials and conviction.

The State asserted Brady stabbed the girl in jealousy at seeing her escorted by a young man. The defense pleaded temporary insanity, caused by excessive indulgence in bootleg liquor.

NEW EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

FOR SKILLED WORKERS OPENS

Headquarters at 2023 Washington, Unskilled Handled as Formerly at 2023.

An employment bureau for skilled and "white collar" workers was opened today by the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment at 2023 Washington avenue. Applications of unskilled laborers are being handled, as formerly, at 2023 Washington avenue. The change in procedure will not affect the status of those previously registered for employment.

Miss Miriam Martin, director of the bureau, said a slight increase in the number of calls for skilled and clerical workers indicated the advisability of establishing a separate department. About 7000 have applied for jobs and new applications have been coming in at the rate of 300 a day. The bureau has placed 250 men in temporary city jobs and each day finds other employment for 15 or 20.

"In almost every line of work," Miss Martin said, "there are men whom we can recommend highly. We are taking pains to send the right person to the right position."

Jackie is making a series of older boy pictures, the next of which will be "Huckleberry Finn."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 25.—

Suit seeking permission to use two ounces of alcohol in each pound of fruit cake baked by the Purdy Bread Co. of Alton will be heard in Federal Court here tomorrow.

The case is directed against the secretary of the Treasury and E. C. Yellokway, su-

SENATE HEARING ON VETERANS' CASH PAYMENT BILL

Administrator Hines Tells Committee Payment of Compensation Would Total
$3,528,022,000.

AMERICAN LEGION
INDORSES PLAN

Executive Committee Notifies Congressional Leaders
It Favors Principle of Immediate Payment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Veterans' Administrator Hines testified today before the Senate Finance Committee that cash payment of veterans' compensation certificates would involve $3,528,022,000.

He was the first witness after the committee had voted unanimously to go forward with hearings on Senate proposals, despite insistence of House leaders that proposals to pay the certificates was revenue-raising legislation and should originate in that branch.

Senator Watson, the Republican leader, presided in the absence of Senator Smoot, who is ill.

The action of the American Legion's Executive Committee, in Indianapolis yesterday, endorsing the principle of immediate retirement of the certificates, received the notice of both Senate and House leaders.

Action by House Committee. Republican Leader Wilson said the House Ways and Means Committee had arranged to start studying all conversion bills of which there are about 50—the latter part of the week.

Democratic leader Garner, author of a cash payment plan, said he assumed "this means action at this session." His bill would pay the veterans the present surrender value of their certificates, at their petition. Estimating 60 per cent would seek conversion, he believed it would cost $1,200,000,000.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has reported to the House committee it would cost "2,000,000,000 more or less."

Before the Senate committee, Hines said 2,435,000 certificates had been issued and estimated 200,000 veterans have made no applications.

The Government has paid out $101,000,000 in matured certificates leaving 3,297,973 outstanding.

The loan value of all outstanding certificates, Hines testified, is $720,995,000, or an average of $216.

$258,121,516 in Loans. The average amount of indebtedness on each certificate is $181. Loans have been made to 1,284,016 veterans amounting to $238,131,516, or 22 per cent of the face value of the certificates.

Hines testified 40 per cent of the veterans eligible had received loans. The total value of the fund which the Government is accumulating to pay off certificates at maturity amounted on Jan. 1 to $777,550,000. The Government is contributing about $112,500,000 a year to the fund which should make enough to pay off the certificates in 1945.

The Veterans' Administrator testified loans to veterans this year are "far away in excess" of the loans last year.

Demand for Loans General. Hines said the demand for loans is general and is not restricted to any sections of the country. The requests are coming from veterans who have never borrowed before, as well as those who have, he said.

Loans in 1929 and 1930 averaged between $5,000,000 and $7,000,000 a month, while so far this month they have totaled $17,000,000.

SENATE HEARING ON VETERANS' CASH PAYMENT BILL

Administrator Hines Tells Committee Payment of Compensation Would Total $3,528,022,000.

AMERICAN LEGION INDORSES PLAN

Executive Committee Notifies Congressional Leaders It Favors Principle of Immediate Payment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Veterans' Administrator Hines testified today before the Senate Finance Committee that cash payment of veterans' compensation certificates would involve $3,528,022,000.

He was the first witness after the committee had voted unanimously to go forward with hearings on Senate proposals, despite insistence of House leaders that the committee pay the certificates was premature legislation and should originate in that branch.

Senator Watson, the Republican leader, presided in the absence of Senator Smoot, who is ill.

The action of the American Legion's Executive Committee, in Indianapolis yesterday, endorsing the principle of immediate retirement of the certificates, received the notice of both Senate and House leaders.

Action by House Committee. Republican Leader Tilson said the House Ways and Means Committee had arranged to start studying all conversion bills of which there are about 50—the latter part of the week.

Democratic leader Garner, author of a cash payment plan, said he assumed "this means action at this session." His bill would pay veterans the present surrender value of their certificates, at their option. Estimating 60 per cent would seek conversion, he believed it would cost $1,200,000,000.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has reported to the House committee it would cost $2,000,000,000 more or less.

Before the Senate committee, Hines said 3,498,000 certificates had been issued and estimated that veterans have made no applications.

The Government has paid out $10,000,000 in matured certificates leaving 3,977,973 outstanding.

The loan value of all outstanding certificates, Hines testified, is $799,905,000, or an average of $216.

$238,131,516 in loans. The average amount of indebtedness on each certificate is $181. Loans have been made to 1,384,036 veterans, amounting to $258,131,516 or 22 per cent of the face value of the certificates.

Hines testified 10 per cent of the veterans eligible had received loans. The total value of the fund which the Government is accumulating to pay off certificates at maturity amounted Jan. 1 to $777,550,000. The Government is contributing about $112,500,000 a year to the fund which should make enough to pay off the certificates by 1931.

The Veterans' Administrator testified loans to veterans this year are "far away in excess" of the loans last year.

Demand for Loans General. Hines said the demand for loans is general and is not restricted to any sections of the country. The requests are coming from veterans who have never borrowed before, as well as those who have, he said.

Loans in 1929 and 1930 averaged $5,000,000 and $7,000,000 a month, while so far this month they have totaled $17,000,000.

The bill introduced by Senator Buckley (Dem.), Kentucky, proposing to pay face value of the certificates, would cost the Government $2,412,000,000 and increase the bonus by $1,670,000,000, Hines said.

As this would increase the bonus, every veteran would take advantage of it, he said. Senator Watson said it would not be good business if he did not. Hines replied:

Legion Says Payment Would Relieve Trade Depression. By the Associated Press. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 26.—Without indicating preference for any bill now pending before Congress, the national executive committee of the American Legion yesterday endorsed the principle of immediate cash retirement, on application, of veterans' compensation certificates. The cash value of the certificates is approximately $2,412,000,000.

At the Legion's national convention at Boston last year, a resolution favoring payment of 50 per cent of the certificates was tabled. A preamble to the resolution, adopted here unanimously, stated the convention's action was taken because the Legion was "firmly op-

Aid of 13,000 Foreign Experts Required in 1931 Soviet Program

Officials Estimate 3000 Additional Engineers Are Needed in Five-Year Industrialization Plan.

By the Associated Press. MOSCOW, Jan. 26.—The Soviet Government will continue to look to the foreign specialists for the necessary technical skill in putting the five-year industrialization plan across.

Government officials estimated today that 13,000 additional foreign engineers, technicians and skilled workers would be needed in 1931 if the scheduled construction is to be carried out.

At present there are more than 400 foreign specialists employed under individual contracts by the Soviet Union in addition to the 2000 or more, employees of 124 large foreign companies having technical-aid contracts with the Government.

Efforts to develop native talent by intensive training methods have met largely with failure. Technical schools generally cut their courses from three years to six months, with students working day and night in order to qualify in the various technical professions. But majority of the students were found unable to stand the strain and large classes were reduced greatly before completion of the courses.

3000 Engineers Required. Of the 13,000 additional men needed in 1931, 3000 are engineers, 3000 foremen and 7000 skilled workers. Europe is expected to supply about 2600 of the engineers and the same number of foremen and about 5000 skilled workers. The remainder is expected to be obtained in America.

The unemployment situation in the rest of the world puts the Soviet Union in a favorable position in employing foreign help as applicants for the most part are willing to work for less than in more prosperous times.

posed to initiating such legislation within itself." It added that since "such question has been initiated elsewhere."

The resolution declared the committee of the opinion that the immediate distribution and circulation of funds "would at this time materially assist in the relief of present distressful economic conditions and put new life into American business and would bring immediate relief to the hundreds of thousands of veterans and their dependents who are now in sore distress and dire need."

However, the committee reaffirmed "as our first and immediate objective, legislation for the further relief of the disabled man and his dependents."

ITALIAN TROOPS ROUT REBELS IN SEVERE BATTLE IN LIBYA

Lose Two Officers and Two Men; Kill 20 Tribesmen in Cufra Oasis.

By the Associated Press. ROME, Jan. 25.—Italian colonial troops routed a band of natives in severe fighting Saturday. At Bi Tag in the heart of the Cufra oasis region of Libya, two officers and two native soldiers were killed. Sixteen natives in the Italian force were wounded.

Twenty of the rebel tribesmen were killed and 13 were taken prisoner. The Duke of Apulia, called the Flying Duke, is credited in dispatches with having played an "important, efficacious and decisive role" in bombing the rebels from the air.

The oasis zone in Cufra has long been an objective of the colonial authorities after the conquest of the Fezzan region. Operations began Jan. 1 over a 500-mile front, two columns of troops starting from Gialo with Sahara Corps, and a squadron of armored cars with native soldiers from Uadai Chahr. They converged at Bir Zighen on Jan. 3.

The rebels fought bitterly and a decisive action, which began Jan. 19, continued until the tribesmen, seeing themselves surrounded, fled in disorder, leaving two of their leaders dead. A detachment followed them toward Egypt for more than 125 miles. As they fled the rebels left their women and children and livestock behind.

TREASURE IN QUEEN'S TOMB

Toilet Articles of Pure Gold in Latest Discovery in Egypt.

By the Associated Press. CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 26.—The tomb of an ancient Queen, containing magnificent treasures, was discovered yesterday at the Raouet tomb enclosure by Prof. Selim Hassan, noted Egyptologist. The Queen has not been identified, but the tomb consists of two chambers, one containing her sarcophagus and the other furniture and such objects as toilet requisites in pure gold. Alabaster figures and a bed also were found, the design of the latter resembling some modern European styles.

The Raouet tomb (Raouet was high priest of Nubkheh, goddess of upper Egypt) is near the Sphinx.

SENATE IN IRONIC DEBATE LAUGHS OVER DRY REPORT

Merriment Sweeps Staid Chamber, Leaving Only Heflin, After Brief Smile, in Serious Humor.

TYDINGS WANTS EVIDENCE PUBLISHED

Decides to Act on Norris' Suggestion; Demand Commissioners Be Questioned Is Laid Aside.

By CHARLES G. ROSS. Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The usually dignified Senate of the United States went into spasms of merriment today while a clerk, at the instance of Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, read into the record a New York newspaper's paraphrase of Lincoln's Gettysburg address as it might have been written by the Wickersham Commission.

Senator Moses, in the chair, made no attempt to check the laughter which swept the Senate floor and the galleries.

The paraphrase gave the text of the Gettysburg address, with parentheses in the manner of "Strange Interlude," at the end of each sentence, containing the various dissents of the 11 Wickersham Commissioners. They were able to agree only that Gettysburg was a battlefield where many soldiers were buried.

The reading was part of an ironic discussion of the Wickersham report brought on by the Tydings resolution calling for a Senate investigation to find out what the Commissioners meant and to determine whether they were influenced by "an outside authority."

The latter part of the resolution was produced by persistent rumors that the President had the report "doctored" after a majority of the Commissioners had agreed to recommend immediate revision of the eighteenth amendment.

Because Senator Tydings (Dem.), Maryland, author of the resolution, had to leave the chamber for the afternoon, the resolution was allowed to go over for future action, without prejudice.

At the suggestion of Johnson, Tydings modified his draft so as to make it call for the appearance of all the commissioners, and not merely the chairman, before the Judiciary Committee.

Suggests Publication. Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, chairman of that committee, opposed the measure, though he agreed it might be desirable to ask the commission to publish the secret evidence by which it had based its findings. Senator Bingham (Rep.), Connecticut, supporting the resolution, twitted Norris with the suggestion that the Nebraska

LIBERALS TO BACK BRITISH PREMIER ON LABOR ISSUE

This Is Prediction of Chairman of Party—Test Expected in House of Commons This Week.

VOTE ON REPEAL OF STRIKE RESTRICTION

In Radio Address, Sir Herbert Samuel Discusses Dole, Unemployment and Proposed Tariff.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Sir Herbert Samuel, chairman of the Liberal party in Great Britain, in a talk from London yesterday, carried across the Atlantic by the Columbia Broadcasting System and sent out to American radio listeners, said that only a minority of Liberal members of Parliament, led by Sir John Simon, will vote with the conservatives against the Labor party in the first real test Premier MacDonald's Government will face in the present session of Parliament.

This test of the Labor Government's strength will come on the vote on the trade disputes bill, introduced by Labor to remove legislation passed by the last Conservative Government under which sympathetic strikes were outlawed and trade unions were forbidden to levy on their members for political funds.

Samuel was circumspect about the plans of the majority of Liberals when the bill comes to vote. He did not say definitely whether they would vote with Labor or abstain from voting. He remarked that 44 of the 53 Liberals would have to vote against Labor to overthrow the Government.

Party Split Divided. "Among the Liberals," he said, "the effects of the open split in the party several years ago between the followers of Mr. Asquith and Mr. Lloyd George are still felt and Mr. Asquith is still a factor in the party."

"The London round-table conference was operated in such a way as to give the world the impression that India was about to receive home rule. It ought to be made very clear that the home rule offered India has three vital reservations which almost reduce it to a word instead of a fact."

Will Durant Accuses Britain Of Draining Wealth of India

Distinguished Writer, Here for Talk, Says Home Rule Proposal Preserves Means of Exploitation.

The British proposal of home rule for India preserves all the means of exploitation which have reduced it in a century from extraordinary wealth to extraordinary poverty, Will Durant, distinguished writer and student, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today.

"The Case for India," as he presented it before the Junior League in his lecture of the Monday morning series, was an outspoken argument against British subjugation of India.

Declaring he could cite English authority for every statement he made, he said the British had drained off the wealth until "the poverty of the Hindu farms and Hindu factories is the worst in the world and, in any country, would be considered full warrant for casting out the Government."

In the interview he described Mahatma Gandhi's release as a piece of strategy. The home rule proposal, despite its vital reservations, would place India in a better position to work for complete independence, he conceded.

Remarking that "it's ridiculous for a mere student to talk about so many things," he declared that the "economic mess" in this country would end in only one way—reduction of prices—whether or not business leaders wanted it to end that way, and that the only means of hastening the end was voluntarily to reduce prices.

Gandhi's release was a part of the strategy to impress the rest of the world," he said. "You know he and his followers started out pledged for independence."

"The London round-table conference was operated in such a way as to give the world the impression that India was about to receive home rule. It ought to be made very clear that the home rule offered India has three vital reservations which almost reduce it to a word instead of a fact."

LINEUP FOR HOUSE REAPPORTIONMENT TO BE UNCHANGED

Law, Based on 1930 Census, in Effect March 4, but Does Not Apply Until the 73rd Congress.

WETS EXPECT TO ADD TO STRENGTH

Missouri Will Lose Three Members—Largest Increase in California With a Total of 9 Seats.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The reapportionment of House representation as announced by President Hoover in November on the basis of the 1930 census, will go into effect March 4 unchanged.

Definite assurances were received from congressional leaders today, that the controversy over reapportionment would not be reopened on House or Senate floor. So Speaker Longworth said "there will be no reapportionment legislation at this session."

Although efforts are being made by members from states losing representation to have the 7,000,000 aliens eliminated from the apportionment count, they admit their chances are remote. Hearings before the House Judiciary Committee on the Hoch resolution to eliminate the aliens are to be resumed Wednesday. Its proponents believe they have enough committee votes to have it reported but with the legislative calendar crowded they have little hope of further action.

A law passed in the spring of 1929 outlined the new lineup and set the time for it to become effective.

Twenty-one states lose 27 members while 11 gain. Most of the legislatures of those states are now in session, considering the problem

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Favors Clayton-Oakland Route.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ABOUT a year ago, I nearly rushed into a trap in favor of bringing the highway No. 40 into St. Louis via Olive Street road or Park avenue.

However, if you will study a map of St. Louis you will observe that Clayton road and Oakland avenue lead almost directly to a connection with No. 64 at Chouteau and Vandeventer. So that traffic to and from the Free Bridge would pass by instead of through the principal heavy traffic areas of St. Louis. This is a very desirable thing for perhaps 75 per cent of the U. S. highway through car movement. Those coming in from the West could follow an improved Clayton road through the park into that part of St. Louis north of Market street. Those wanting to go via the Lewis and Clark, St. Charles or Chain of Rocks bridges, as well as south, without coming into the city would find Lindbergh boulevard (Denny road) at their service.

This route would enable St. Louis to put its best foot forward to all coming in via No. 40, as anyone who will drive in Clayton road may see for himself. A hotel for tourists near Oakland, Kingshighway and Manchester, within easy reach of the Opera and Forest Park, Shaw's Garden and Tower Grove Park, the hospital and church centers, Washington University and the Grand avenue district, should prove very profitable and be helpful to many tourists. NO. 40.

Hoover and the Wickersham Report.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
IT has cost the taxpayers of this most unfortunate country $500,000 to find where Mr. Hoover stands on prohibition.

It looks as though the commission was appointed for the sole purpose of giving Mr. Hoover something on which to hang his star of hope. Other than that, the commission hasn't given us a single thought we did not already possess.

It seems as though only a few of us old veteran Republicans were not fooled by Mr. Hoover in 1928, but unless I very much misjudge the intelligence of the voters, there will be many, yes many, that will shy at his shadow in 1932.
Rolla, Mo. J. W. GOOD.

Milk Prices.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WHY is milk production being restricted by the milk distributors?

We are told that there is an overproduction of milk, but this overproduction is not reflected in the price of milk. Milk from tuberculin tested cows is sold here, a concentration point for milk 50 miles from St. Louis, for 17.75 a hundred pounds, which is 3 1/2 cents a quart. This price is for milk and not the bluing-water that is sold for milk in St. Louis. Milk distributors must be a very profitable business; you buy milk for 3 1/2 cents a quart and sell bluing-water for 18 cents a quart. One company refuses to buy any milk from any new producer even at the low price of 3 1/2 cents a quart, and another refuses to buy any milk from any producer at even these low prices unless that producer buys some of a special stock issue that it has for sale.

Farm life is not encouraging under these conditions. Why cannot the retail price of milk be reduced, thereby increasing the consumption of milk? It is a deplorable state of affairs; the farmer cannot sell his milk for even 3 1/2 cents a quart, and thousands of poor people cannot afford to pay 13 cents a quart for drinking-water. The heads of some corporations need to be taught a few lessons in humanitarianism.
Sparta, Ill. J. R. FELLERS.

A Joke.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I THINK the Wickersham report is a joke. It shows too plainly the influence of the drys. It contradicts itself. It is nothing but a straddle. About the only effect it will have will be to increase appropriations for the financial cause of prohibition, make more jobs for Anti-Saloon Leagues and cause more millions of the taxpayers' money to be cast into the slough of despond. The requirements of good citizenship now seem to be blind obedience, meekness and indifference.
MONTROSE D. BUCK.

Terminology.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

BE it confessed: I do not love you now. As other men have loved you, and will love.

(Look not into my heart, nor ask me how A cold wind came to chill the flame thereof.)

I thought it strange indeed, and wondered why You saw in me a mortal to adore.

In wonderment you find it strange that I should turn away, desiring you no more. Tomorrow we shall part as strangers go.

And, smiling, go the way that strangers go. And only when our bitterness of heart Has dwindled into nothing, shall we know The final, futile answer: I have won. And you have lost, and we are both undone.
CARDINAL LE GROS.

INVESTOR AND POWER INDUSTRY.

A short time ago Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Co., issued a statement in which he charged that certain politicians, journalists and college professors had, through their misleading statements, intimidated investors in the electric power and light industry, and thus endangered prosperity. Some unkindly critic, reading this statement, might recall that a few years ago the electrical utilities, through an organization in which Mr. Insull was a prime mover, engaged in a nationwide propaganda campaign, in which particular efforts were made to "sow up" the journalists and the professors through a lavish expenditure of funds. The critic might point out that, in view of the notorious activities of the Insull organization in Illinois politics, this disapproval of politicians hardly comes with the best of grace. But despite the atmosphere of hokum which envelops Mr. Insull's statement, the issue which he raises of the relation of the investor to the power industry is too important to be dismissed lightly.

Certain basic facts must be recognized. In the first place, the electric light and power industry is one of America's great industries. Most of it is in private hands, with a capitalization in the neighborhood of $10,000,000,000. It is steadily growing, and has some 3,000,000 stockholders, many of them persons of small means. Whatever decision Congress may reach about Muscle Shoals, whatever New York State does about the development of electricity from the St. Lawrence, and whatever headway the movement toward Government ownership may make elsewhere, for many years to come an important part of our electrical utilities will be run and developed by private enterprise. Therefore, protection of the investor and encouragement of further investment in order to finance developments are of great importance.

There is no desire on the part of the critics of these utilities to get something for nothing. They know that the investor is entitled to his return, both as a matter of justice and as a practical problem in insuring the expansion of the industry. But they believe that responsibility does not end with the relation between the public and the investor. The heads of great corporations which solicit the funds of the public are to a certain extent trustees with public responsibilities, and where they are in an industry where natural conditions make competition impossible, their responsibility both to the investor public and the customer public becomes doubly great.

What is the situation which we find in many of our power utilities? Through a system of non-voting stock and pyramiding of holding companies the investor has been disfranchised and control concentrated in the hands of a small group who frequently make little or no cash payment for their stock. A recent Government report cites the case of the control of an investment of $375,000,000 by $1,000,000 of stock. This case, the extreme, is symptomatic of a situation which has alarmed many careful observers of public utility finance. In the frequent shufflings of securities which seem to characterize public utility holding company finance, assets have too frequently been written up and additional securities issued. The thinking investor may well ask: where is the investment that will justify the earnings necessary to pay dividends, in case the fairness of existing rates is challenged by public authorities? Millions are spent on propaganda. The managing director of the National Electric Light Association says: "Don't be afraid of the expense. The public pays the expense." The investor may well ask whether he has any right to expect the public to pay the expense. When certain leaders in the industry fight any attempt at effective regulation of the network of intercorporate relations, it would be surprising if some doubt did not arise as to how well faith was being kept with the public and with the investor.

The investor does not derive his suspicion from the politician, or the journalist, or the professor. The facts are written where he who runs can read: unchallenged figures and documents in Government reports. The critics of the utilities need not draw on Moscow for their inspiration when they ask for an effective regulation of the tangled mass of financial relationships. The United States Supreme Court said, nearly 15 years ago, in regard to railroad regulation, that "there can be nothing private or confidential in the activities or expenditures of a carrier engaged in interstate commerce," and that the powers of governmental investigation "extend to all activities of carriers and to all sums expended by them which would affect in any way their benefit or burden as agents of the public."

The politicians, the journalists and the professors are facing realities when they ask that the affairs of the power industry, no matter how entangled by holding companies, shall not be beyond the scope of public regulation. This is as much for the protection of the investor as it is for the protection of the consuming public. If the leaders in the power industry will recognize this they need have no fear about the continued flow of investment funds into that great industry.

Those Texas Stamese twins who testified they had been held in bondage since childhood probably meant they had been bound together.

ENOUGH TO DISCOURAGE CHESTERTON.

G. E. Chesterton, at present a visitor in St. Louis, is as intimately associated with the paradox as Wilde with the glittering epigram or Franklin with the homely proverb. Yet he informs interviewers here that he has given up use of the provocative contradiction. A man is wise who quietly withdraws from a field on finding himself surpassed. And Chesterton, after several months in the United States, doubtless has concluded it is useless to continue manufacturing paradoxes if he has to compete with those he sees all around him. Consider, for instance, the impossible task of an individual corner of contradictions attempting to rival such Americanisms as these:

Overproduction in field and factory, followed by destitution and want among the hands which wrought that abundance. A year ago with the greatest bank savings totals in the country's history, and a record of the largest number of bank failures in its experience. A country that aspires to leadership in foreign commerce, and then heightens its tariff barriers to cut off mercantile exchange. An act outlawing consumption of alcoholic liquors, supported by penalties, propaganda and huge outlays of money, followed by great increase in the drinking of such liquors. A President who says, "I must not be understood as recommending proposed revision of the eighteenth amendment," and is instantly interrupted by intimates as still having an "open mind" on the question. And, paradox of paradoxes, the Wickersham report itself.

JURY SERVICE FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

The suggestion is frequently heard that the city should select jurors from the ranks of the unemployed. Jurors receive $3 per day and each week approximately 400 men draw an average of $3 for jury service. Instead of distributing this money among men who have jobs, and who find it inconvenient to leave them for jury service, why not make it available to men who can find no work to do and whose families are in want? The suggestion seems sensible and humane. Unfortunately, the law makes it impossible for the city to put it into effect.

The law is very specific in its directions as to how jurors shall be drawn. Names of those eligible for jury service must be deposited in a wheel, "in which the wheel said tickets shall remain securely locked, except when drawn out in the manner hereinafter directed." When drawings are made, "the chief jury clerk shall turn the wheel repeatedly, in such manner as to thoroughly mingle said tickets, and to prevent the possibility of their being drawn out in any concerted or particular order." The wheel at the St. Louis Jury Commissioner's office was locked last October and it still contains 37,000 names, from which jurors must be drawn in the specified way.

In addition to being opposed to the letter of the law, the suggestion that jurors be drawn only from the unemployed is against its spirit. The law contemplates that jurors be composed of persons drawn from the general population impartially and at random, to prevent any particular class or group from monopolizing this service. It is a perfectly sound theory, and to depart from it would be to court danger.

THAT LOS ANGELES TRIAL.

After thrashing it out for two days, the jury finally agreed that Daisy de Boe did steal from her employer, Clara Bow.

The trial was a strange spectacle. Clara Bow's manner of living was presented in much detail. Her numerous admirers, affectionate telegrams, gifts, the screen star's magnificent business incompetency—reel after reel, until at last the Judge, to use his own expression, decided to "take a hand in it." Deploring "the orgy of mud-slinging," he said the question to be determined was, Did the accused steal money from Clara Bow, as charged? Before the Court's intervention it was Clara Bow who, apparently, was on trial, not the defendant. Indeed, the defendant had a jolly time of it and whispered repeatedly in most of the front pages of the land how much she had to tell and how rapturously eager she was to tell it.

After, the Judge spoke, the show abruptly ended and the trial began. We do not know why the Judge did not speak at the outset. We do not know, either, why Clara Bow's attorneys did not "object." The ways of the law are beyond the layman. But the unfairness, gossiping giggling and injustice of the exhibition staged in the Los Angeles trial is another blow at public opinion's respect for the law.

SOMEBODY START UP A SONG.

"Rout that hard times feeling with music." The speaker was Prof. Charles Sanford Skilton, for 23 years teacher of organ and theory and history of music in the University of Kansas and noted composer of sonatas, oratorios, operas, suites and cantatas. What the country needs, he said, is a few popular songs like "Yes, We Have No Bananas" to produce the psychological effect needed for the return of prosperity. The professor is dead right. A heap of good lively songs on the lips of the citizenry would be a big help. We propose to do all in our power to further the movement. As a starter we announce a popular song contest, open to every man, woman and child, regardless of political party or previous condition of servitude, on the subject, "No, But We Have Plenty of Apples."

A CRUSADER FOR HEALTH.

Alfred W. McCann, who died in New York a few days ago, was a veteran of those stirring days when pure food legislation was a crusader's cause and not an accepted fact. Like many another who has donned the warrior's armor, a personal experience led to his fight for a principle: he dined on oysters that violently disagreed with him. Immediately McCann set out to learn why food vendors were permitted to sell commodities unfit for consumption or harmful to health. He joined Dr. Harvey W. Wiley in the fight that led to the pure food and drug law, and was vigorous in investigating packing plants, canneries, dairies, bakeries and other sources of foodstuffs. His aggressiveness brought more than 50 suits for libel. McCann won them all, in addition to hundreds of other actions he brought against violators of the food laws. Known as one of the nation's leading authorities on foods, McCann of recent years had devoted his time to writing and making radio addresses on the subject. The present generation owes much of its progress in health and well-being to such pioneers in this important field.

A PLEA FOR FAITH.

We have received a copy of an editorial from Institutional Financing on the present need for faith—faith in America, its institutions and its leaders. The writer is Lyman L. Pierce, who is identified as "president of Pierce & Hedrick, counselors of religious, social and educational institutions." "It is a good time to re-study the eleventh chapter of Hebrews," he says. There one will find how by faith Noah was moved to build an ark that rode out the deluge and thus preserved mankind; how by faith Moses led the Israelites to a better land; how by faith the walls of Jericho were razed, with many other testimonials to faith in the experiences of the patriarchs. It is seemingly the writer's purpose to show that faith will restore our prosperity; that faith will contrive a craft that will float above the deluge of overproduction; that faith will send the people a leader to conduct them to a land where unemployment is unknown; that by faith tariff walls will tumble down as did the walls of Jericho.

To this citing of Scripture we can only respond that now is also a good time to re-study the second chapter of James. For therein it is asked, "What doth it profit, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? Can faith save him?" And therein it is answered, "Faith, if it have not works, is dead." Faith is a marvelous quality, but what this country needs just now is works.

"I HAD MY SHARE IN THAT."

The Recent Election's Mandate

Colorado Senator-elect deems 1930 election a repudiation of 10 years of privilege and profiteering, and a mandate for the relief of unemployment, assistance of agriculture, reduction of tariff duties, conservation of national resources, effective control of public utilities and improvement of industrial conditions; no coalition possible in view of wide rift between progressives and administration conservatives.

Senator-elect Edward F. Costigan of Colorado in the Atlantic Monthly.

THE essential content over government today, as in the long past, is between those who use it to enlarge the profits and privileges of the few, and those who demand approximate equality of rights and opportunities, safeguarded by government for the many. The campaign of 1930 was fought and won by Democrats and other progressives on the public side of that issue.

Present professions must be judged by past conduct, and it is the view, alike of progressive Democrats, Republicans and Farmer-Laborites, that until the party now nationally in power repudiates its established practices, its attitude and that of the liberal opposition are and must remain fundamentally hostile. Temporary relief measures may be stipulated but the real conflict goes deeper.

The administration, by its blind, persistent, 10-year policies, has proved itself committed to profiteers and devoted to privilege. Progressive coalition with such a program is impossible. Of course, all men and women seek to uphold the hands of the President, but only on the assumption that the President will uphold the hands of the people. So far as conditions permitted, the mandate given in 1930 by the voters of America was for a new governmental order, dictated by age-old democratic principles, adapted to and dominating our changing civilization.

The demand is for a people's, not a profiteer's, sovereignty: a people's education, literature, financial system, tariff and life; a people's electric age; a people's government in all branches, executive, legislative, and judicial; a people's prosperity; a people's peace, and a people's end of wars, which, in the long run, chiefly benefit profiteers.

To illustrate western American sentiment by Colorado, the recent election results may reasonably be regarded as directing remedial action, through Federal laws and executive leadership, designed:

1. To diminish unemployment by an elastic program of Federal works; increasingly effective employment agencies; end large-scale unemployment on immigration in periods of depression; the substitution of adult for child labor; a scientific advance in the direction of old age and unemployment insurance, and of shorter working hours without reduced pay.
2. To assist agriculture by reductions of excessive tariff rates on manufactured articles, or, lacking such reductions, by legislative support for the marketing abroad of surplus staple farm products. Also by further legislation, aimed, for example, to farm warfare, strikes at farm tenancy and to establish just taxes and freight rates; stabilize prices of farm products; give farmers public-spirited and able representation in the various Federal agencies devoted to farm welfare; strike at farm tenancy and to assist farm ownership in the interest of justice and of public well-being; by farm loans payable over a considerably extended period of time, carrying interest at the lowest feasible rates; and postpone, as need arises, with proper safeguards for the banks, the foreclosure of mortgages held by intermediate credit, joint stock and Federal land banks.
3. To secure the reduction of present excessive tariff duties, beginning with monopoly-controlled and other privately price-fixed manufactured articles—new tariff duties to be tested, not by the demands of tariff lobbyists, as at present, but by the national interest and by impartial fact-finding. And, in so doing, to improve general business; widen the average business man's market; increase production and the purchasing power of the farmers, workers and other consumers; discourage monopolies; suppress unfair trade practices; liberalize helpful commerce between the United States and foreign countries; and deepen proper international good will and friendliness.
4. To regulate hereafter far more effectively, justly and wisely the expansion and contraction of credit.
5. To conserve our unappropriated, nationally owned natural resources, and, as part of that program, to operate by the Government our government-owned investments at Muscle Shoals and Boulder Dam in order to produce electric power for the benefit of municipalities and the public.
6. To strengthen and make more justly effective governmental control over transportation, communication and other public utilities.
7. To improve industrial conditions and avoid costly industrial disturbances by legislation recognizing the rights and dignity of labor; tending to establish and maintain harmonious labor relations; and eliminating unnecessary and at times inhuman abuses by courts of injunctions and contempt proceedings, often exclusively directed against workers.
8. To secure and preserve the friendliest disposition between the United States and foreign countries.
9. To uphold genuine, impartial and thorough-going law enforcement.
10. To support governmental economy, subject to the imperative demands of the public welfare; and to promote governmental efficiency.

Such indications as the foregoing, which are illustrative rather than all-inclusive, of a liberally Democratic legislative and executive program, in contrast with present administration suggestions, reveal the quickness and the justice of the present plan of coalition government. It must be evident that no immediate hopes may now be indulged of any permanent union of the administration with Democratic and other progressive opposition. Life and government are not yet so simple. The progress, alive and conservative forces of America at this hour are in sharp disagreement, even over such preliminary questions as the right to use government for the general good, not to mention the promotion of economic liberty and justice for all citizens. Many conservatives still timidly urge that such activities be left to the whims of charity or the lawlessness of chance.

Mencken on the Thermostat

From the American Mercury.

OF all the great inventions of modern times the one that has given me most comfort and joy is one that is seldom heard of, to-wit, the thermostat. I was amazed some time ago, to learn that it was invented at least a generation ago. I first heard of it during the war, when some kind friend suggested that I throw out the coal furnace that was making steam in my house and put in a gas furnace. Naturally I hesitated, for the human mind is so constituted. But the day I finally succumbed must remain ever memorable in my annals, for it saw me move at one leap from an inferno into a sort of paradise.

Everyone will recall how bad the cold was in those heroic days. The patriotic anthracite men loaded their coal piles all over the East. Not a furnace man was in practice in my neighborhood; all of them were working in the shipyards at $15 a day. So I had to shovel coal myself, and not only shovel coal, but sift ashes. It was a truly heroic task. Worse, my house was always either too hot or too cold. When a few pieces of actual coal appeared in the mass of slate the temperature leaped up to 55 degrees, but most of the time it was between 45 and 50.

The thermostat changed all that, and it is an instant. I simply set it at 68 degrees, and then went on about my business. Whenever the temperature in the house went up to 70 it automatically turned off the gas, and whenever it fell to 66, and there was an immediate return to 68. And if the mercury, keeping on, dropped to 64, that the gas went on again, and the temperature was soon 68 once more.

For all these reasons and a host of others, I would take the limber, vibrant, air-cooled tongue of a Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, nay, of a William Jennings Bryan, to be the most useful and comfortable. I began to feel like a man liberated from the death-house. I was never too hot or too cold. I had no coal to haul, no ashes to sift. My house became so clean that I could wear a shirt five days. I began to feel like a man, and rapidly turned out a series of imperishable contributions to the national letters. My temper improved so vastly that my family began to suspect subtle changes. Moreover, my cellar became as clean as the rest of the house, and as roomy as a barn. I enlarged my wine-room by 1000 cubic meters. I put in a cedar closet big enough to hold my immense wardrobe. I added a vault for papers, a carpenter shop and a praying chamber.

game behind, and the Boeckler fourth and St. Louis Lumber fifth.

The second half of the Ben Cohen-Ray Holmes 20-game match will be rolled at Charley Peterson's alley Tuesday night at 9 o'clock. Cohen has a lead of 245 pints over the Wooster Lambert star.

F. Flala was the star in the Cherokee Business Men's League on the Cindrella alley, rolling a three-game total of 674, with games of 234, 229 and 211. His team, the Zeltmans, totaled 2937 and won three games from the Daus. St. Louis set a new single game record of 275, but totaled only 513, to lead the Davids to a two-game victory over the Ablyas. Newsom had 600, Elsenhoh's 601 was high for the Daus. Woelke shot 601 and the Daus won two games from the Cherokee. In the other matches the Kriwaneks won three from the Lanter and the Cindrellaes won two from the Cherokee Shoes.

The Golden Eagles went into second place in the Golden Eagle Handicap League by winning three games from the Walters. The Eagles rolled a new high three-score of 2991. Ben Strand led the winners with 627. The Deters won two from the Walters and the Schweigert won two from the leading Newmans in the other matches.

Senator Shepard told the Senate today he intends to introduce legislation to make wine and beer subject to the prohibition law. The Texas Democrat, a sponsor of the eighteenth amendment, made his statement in response to questioning by Senator Blaine Wickersham.

Violation of the dry law in the district of Columbia was declared by Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, to be the law. He pointed out that seven members of the law enforcement in homes in the capital on evidence that liquor was taken into or removed from homes.

"We are bringing the law into dispute," he said, "by undertaking to do those things we ought not to do."

Senator Howell (Rep.), Nebraska, had just urged approval of his bill for a drastic local enforcement act. He said "every advantage is offered the bootlegger in the national capital. Why shouldn't the bootlegging industry flourish here? The use by bootleggers of private dwellings as storehouses for liquor makes it difficult for police to control them."

Senator Shepard said that when still is operated in a house, that houses "ceases to be a home" because it is used for criminal operations.

A declaration by Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, that officers and not home raiders were necessary to enforce the dry law brought applause from the galleries. "What you need is an officer—not a home raider. You don't have to invade the home to catch a bootlegger on the street transporting liquor. You have never done prohibition any good by searching homes. The prohibition law is endangered from the sources—first from the extreme favoring the law, second by resorting to extra-constitutional means to enforce the law."

The Senate refused to send the Howell bill back to its Judiciary Committee for further study. By 28 to 45 it rejected a motion by Senator Hawes (Dem.), Missouri, to send the bill to committee instead of continuing consideration.

An early move to consolidate Republican sentiment in Congress, both wet and dry, upon proposals for a nation-wide prohibition referendum is forecast today in high Congressional quarters.

SENATE IN IRONIC DEBATE LAUGHS OVER DRY REPORT

An early move to consolidate Republican sentiment in Congress, both wet and dry, upon proposals for a nation-wide prohibition referendum is forecast today in high Congressional quarters.

There is no expectation, however, of voting on any referendum proposal at this session. The current Congressional situation is such that leaders anticipate only debate and minor engagements. Anything approaching decisive clashes will have to wait for the next session at least, when the aggressive wets want to force the issue, with the 1932 presidential conventions just ahead.

Representative Fort (Rep.), New Jersey, author of a "resubmission" plan, asserts that "before this session the evidence it took in its prohibition inquiry and Tydings said he would offer a resolution to that effect."

Senator Shepard told the Senate today he intends to introduce legislation to make wine and beer subject to the prohibition law. The Texas Democrat, a sponsor of the eighteenth amendment, made his statement in response to questioning by Senator Blaine Wickersham.

000 of unemployed workers, and the maintenance of these workers and their families costs the country over $12,000,000 a week.

But the position is not quite so bad as it might seem at first sight.

Analysis of Statistics.

About one-fourth of all these are not wholly unemployed, but are employed irregularly, and when they are out of work for a few days at a time they register as unemployed and are assisted from the insurance funds.

Here and there are some people who, while they are legally entitled to assistance from the funds, are not morally entitled to it, and an inquiry is now being held into that matter.

But whatever allowance may be made in that regard, the fact remains that the number of the unemployed is enormously large.

The present industrial situation is grave and this reacts on the credit of the Government of the day as in all countries where there is trade depression.

The Conservatives advocate a protection tariff as the best remedy available for our distresses, and they press for a dissolution of Parliament and a general election to decide the issue.

The Labor and Liberal parties reject that policy, believing that it will do neither good nor bad, and to a general election, they are willing to put the question to the issue before the people, but they insist there should first be a reform in our system of voting.

"That system works well when there are two parties but badly when there are three, and it is contended that a general election would give the majority to the Conservatives over all the other parties in the House of Commons, enabling them to form a Government and to propose and pass into the law a protective tariff, while at the same time they would be the majority of some millions of the people against such a policy, their votes being divided between the other two parties, Labor and Liberal."

"Underpinning" and not "overproduction" is the cause of the business depression. Dr. Durant said, and added, "Overproduction means simply that the workers are not underpaid that they cannot buy back the equivalent of what they have produced."

"In the last 20 years the profits of the investing class have risen so much more rapidly than the wages of the producing class as to result in a concentration of capital and consequent exportation of capital and, therefore, a comparatively inadequate buying power on the part of our people."

"The cure follows from the cause. The only way out of the depression is to lower prices. It can be done only by reducing either wages or profits, and to reduce wages would be suicidal, since it would still further reduce buying power. There is no way out except a further sacrifice by the investing class, and unless they make it voluntarily they may lose still more in the long run."

Brown Shoe Co. Director Dies.

Edgar F. Shaw, 75 years old, for many years a salesman for the Brown Shoe Co. in the Missouri territory, died of heart disease today at his home, 4451 Westminster place.

He retired about 10 years ago but remained a director of the company. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the New Cathedral. His widow survives.

California Gains 9 Seats.

Under the reapportionment, California gains nine seats; Michigan, four; Texas, three; New York, New Jersey and Ohio, two each; Connecticut, Florida, North Carolina, Oklahoma and North Dakota, one each.

Missouri loses three members; Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky and Pennsylvania, two each; and Alabama, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia and Wisconsin, one.

The anti-prohibitionists expect their strength to be increased because of the seats in metropolitan areas with a corresponding decrease in the dry forces in Mid-Western and Southern states.

U. S. COURT NAMES RECEIVER FOR CENTRAL COAL & COKE CO.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 26.—Appointment of receiver for the Central Coal & Coke Co., a $23,000,000 corporation, with extensive lumber and mine land holdings in the Southwest, was made public yesterday.

Judge Albert L. Reeves of the Federal Court appointed J. M. Bernardin, head of a lumber company bearing his name, as primary receiver for the corporation, which officials said had reached the point of not being able to meet pressing obligations. The company has lumber holdings in the South and West and a large acreage in coal lands in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Ancillary receivers will be appointed later for judicial districts in which these interests are located.

Charles S. Keith, president of the company, of which the Delta Land & Timber Co. is a subsidiary, blamed the general economic depression and especially the depression in the coal and lumber industry as a whole for the company's condition.

"It is our belief," he said, "that the present receivership will be temporary only."

DUBS DRY LAW REPORT

'WEB-FOOTED CHICKEN'

R. W. Kelso, in Radio Address, Says It Will Help Cure "Maudlin State."

The Wickersham report, illegitimate children, soup kitchens and social workers were discussed by Robert W. Kelso, director of the Community Fund, yesterday, during the Community Forum period on radio station KMOX.

"A sort of chicken with web feet," was Kelso's characterization of the Wickersham report. "The premises are wet, the conclusions dry," he said. But, he added, "This report offers much of constructive value. It will help pull us out of that maudlin state in which the dubs pull such a long-faced attitude of prayer and the wets all have the hiccoughs," he said. "When Dean Roscoe Pound, in all probability the deepest and keenest legal thinker of our time, signs his approval to such a scheme as the Anderson plan for control of the liquor traffic, it behooves every bald-headed wet and every long-whiskered dry to sit up and take notice."

Kelso said about 2000 illegitimate children are born each year in Missouri and cost the State and social agencies about $2,000,000 a year. A law is needed, he said, by which paternity can be established and the parents required to support the children. "In modern society," he said, "the parties in interest are not the parents, but the child and society. The parents, in any sound social view are offenders against the common welfare, standing at the bar of justice."

Soup kitchens have no place in a relief program except the first days following a great disaster, Kelso said. The social worker portrayed in the recent theater production "Street Scene," he declared was not even a caricature. Social workers have become the butt of jokes in the current vogue of humor, he said, succeeding the Irish, Scotch and Ford automobiles.

In the "modern miracles" portion of the program E. F. L. Snyder, merchandise manager of Union Electric Light & Power Co., predicted homes soon will be equipped with ventilating systems through which dust and smoke will be sifted from the air and germs destroyed by ultra-violet rays. C. A. Bacon, of the Curtiss-Wright Airplane Co., predicted a prosperous future for aviation, and Harold J. Wrape, president of Benwood-Lime Co., said practical utilization of television is but a few months away.

BOY HUNTER LOSES RIGHT ARM

Accidentally Shot as Brother, 10, Handed Him a Gun.

The right arm of Harold Smith, 13 years old, was amputated at St. Joseph's Hospital in Alton yesterday. A load of bird shot entered the arm Saturday when a shotgun was accidentally discharged as his 10-year-old brother attempted to hand the weapon to him.

The boys, sons of Albitt Smith, a farmer near Hamburg, Ill., had been hunting rabbits near their home.

RICHARD D. HARLAN, SON OF LATE JUSTICE, DIES

Succumbs Three Days After Death of Wife; Former Head of Lake Forest College.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—After 41 years of marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davenport Harlan were separated by death only three days. Mr. Harlan, who at one time was president of Lake Forest College in Illinois, and whose father was Justice John Marshall Harlan of the United States Supreme Court, died Saturday of a throat infection. He was 71 years old. Mrs. Harlan died of apoplexy last Wednesday.

Funeral services for Mr. Harlan will be conducted here tomorrow. Forty years ago he was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of New York and a few years later of the Third Presbyterian Church of Rochester, N. Y. He took a leading part in the establishment of George Washington University here. A brother, John M. Harlan, of Chicago, and two sisters, Miss Laura Harlan, who was social secretary to President Harding's wife, and Miss Ruth Harlan, both of Washington, survive.

TWO KILLED IN LIQUOR RAID

Deputy Sheriff and Negro Shot in North Carolina.

By the Associated Press.

SCOTLAND, N.C., Jan. 26.—A Deputy Sheriff and a Negro were killed near here late yesterday in a fight growing out of an attempt to search the Negro's house for whisky.

Deputy Sheriff J. E. Perry of Halifax County died immediately when Grandville Sanders, the Negro, discharged a shotgun at him as he entered Sanders' home and displayed a search warrant. E. E. Allabrooks, Special Deputy, shot Sanders to death after the Negro had fired once at him. A Coroner's jury exonerated Allabrooks of blame.

Twice the Help!

Many things people take for constipation do only half as much for them as Cascarets would do. For Cascarets are made from cascara, which any doctor will tell you acts not only on the lower bowel but the upper one as well. And it actually strengthens the muscles of the bowels. So the quick, pleasant relief Cascarets bring when you're bilious, dizzy, headachy and constipated, is lasting relief! Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how that coated tongue clears up; how your breath is sweetened; eyes are brightened and your entire system is strengthened. 20 million boxes used yearly is proof of their popularity!

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR.

A DAY or so later, Betty, coming home from work, met one of Helen's teachers in the subway. She knew this Miss Norton slightly, they had gone "into conference" over Helen now and again. The two of them found a seat in the local together and started to talk.

"It's a pity that Helen was ill so much this spring term," Miss Norton remarked, casually, "she seemed to have far too many headaches. I told her she should have her eyes examined."

Betty was deeply distressed. She thought painfully that she had failed. You couldn't be a guardian and a mother and a bread-earner all in one. She couldn't take the place of Helen's dead father and of her too easy going mother—and still go out and earn to their living. She had failed with this youngest and dearest of her family. And harm had been done—how much harm, she did not know.

She looked into the lovely clear eyes which met hers so frankly, with a little plea for understanding and pardon in their clear depths, with perhaps, too, a little shining out of laughter. Life was so entertaining to Helen!

"Helen, dear"—but she couldn't get any farther. The tears were coming again, tears of absolute impotence in coping with this new problem. Helen enquired her bright head against her sister's arm.

"I'm sorry," she murmured. "Betty—I'm truly sorry I've made you feel badly. But I couldn't help it. I asked you, first, and you wouldn't let me."

"I don't know what to do with you," Betty confessed. "I can't lock you up—I can't set a guard over you. I can only ask you for word of honor that you will stop this—and behave yourself."

"I can't give it," replied Helen, flatly.

"No, I can't, Betty—I've got to go on with it. I give you fair warning. I'll run away as often as I can and as often as I'm dragged back I'll run away again."

THE exquisite red mouth was set in a hard line which made her look years older. Her face seemed suddenly sharpened out of the curved contours of recent childhood into thin lines of determination and obstinacy.

"I forbid you!" cried Betty, sharply.

"It won't do you any good," answered Helen.

"But Helen—alone—over at the studio—at your age! You know it's not a fit place for you."

"Why not?" asked Helen, shrewdly. "I can take care of myself all right. I want to get ahead. Well, I have to learn the game. I have to start at the bottom like everyone else—I'm not going over there for thrill or excitement or to pick up some fool man or catch him until some work and work hard until some bird notices me and gives me a part. It's no harder to take care of yourself—if you know how and really want to—in a studio than it is in an office, Betty Warren."

Betty was silent. She knew—none better—how right Helen was, at least, theoretically. She herself was much older than Helen, she herself was a self-respecting business girl, working in a most respectable office. And she had not been able to take care of herself.

"Well," she said at length and rose, "promise me this. That you will say nothing to anyone, that you won't go over there again until I have thought over what is best for all of us."

"All right," Helen agreed slowly, then she added, "You've been a peach—a good sport. Thanks."

Betty left her in the room and went downstairs to look over some work she had brought home. She was in a curiously helpless position. Helen had threatened her—sorrowfully but deliberately—and she knew Helen well enough to know that her threats were not idle words. What should she do that would be the best for the girl's ultimate good?

She decided to ask Bob. Bob had a clear head—where she herself was not personally concerned, she thought, smiling a little.

HE told him the whole story the next evening. He took his time before he answered her imploring concluding question. "Bob—what shall I do with her?"

"Let her have her head," he answered, after a time and with deliberation.

"But Bob . . . at her age . . . and a studio."

"Never mind those arguments. They're all right, but they won't wash in this case. Helen can take care of herself. She's ambitious and keen and she isn't a silly sentimental little school kid. She'll get on, don't worry. She has had you all these years," he added tenderly. "And I think she understands you and knows you better than the rest. She would not do anything to hurt you—or herself. She has too much respect for herself and she's too shrewd. She's hard in a way, and a little hard."

Fashions From the Screen Capital

See Carol, screen player, has adopted this youthful model which follows the empire style and is in green velvet. The flaring skirt is of silk tulle to match, and the flowers are of self fabric.

Irene Dunne wears a new spring model of egg shell pussy willow silk, with poppies of beige and tomato red, especially designed for her by Lucille Woods. The sport bow at the hip is of beige and tomato red transparent velvet.

Bobe Daniels finds navy blue and white a delightful color combination for sport wear. The frock is of white flat crepe and the coat is of navy tulle, double breasted with a novel scarf of two shades. The beret is a pleasing complement to the costume.

Alba.

THE Little Black Clock had promised that their trip this evening would be one of interest to Peggy, but he told John to come along, too, to amuse himself.

The children were waiting for him at the end of the magic path as he came rushing along.

"I'm not using much magic this evening," he began. "I've only turned the time back a few years, but Peggy is to meet Alba."

"Is Alba a place?" asked John. "Maybe it's a person," suggested Peggy.

"Peggy is not far from right," the Clock smiled. "In fact, I think you'd call Alba a person. She is almost a person."

"What is a person like who is almost a person?" John asked.

"Just walk along with me, and you'll see," the Clock answered. As usual, in spite of his short little legs, they had trouble keeping up with him. How quickly he could walk and how he could run, too!

They walked along until they came to a very pretty little white house with its front door and shutters painted blue. Peggy wondered if the person named Alba lived here.

The Little Black Clock knocked on the door and it was opened very quickly by a funny little man. Following right after him was a funny little woman.

They both looked as though they were quite old and quite young at the same time. The children were puzzled, and wondered why there was no mistaking an old person from a very young person.

"Hello," said the little man. "Alba will be simply delighted to see the funny little woman. She has been looking forward to this ever since I told her that you were going to bring visitors." And then she told Peggy that Alba was a dear, dear, dear doll.

"I know you'll love her," the funny little woman said, and she took Peggy by the arm and led her up the stairs.

A Bit of Wax

One housewife waxes her window sills just as she does her floors. It protects them from all dust, and rain and if dusted with the room each day they rarely require washing. They should be waxed once every three months.

New Equipment

HAVE you ever been reading in bed and wished you didn't have to worry about turning the light out so that you could doze off as the mood developed?

Haven't you ever wanted to lie snugly in bed with radio music coming to you and not have to worry about turning it off in 20 or 30 minutes? And haven't you wished you could time your eggs, coffee, toast, etc., even though you didn't have any of the new automatic timing appliances?

All of the foregoing wishes and many another trick are possible now through a new automatic timing switch that looks pretty much like your ordinary wall switch now in general use.

The entire trick rests in an automatic timing element that is controlled directly to the left of the toggle lever itself. The timer may be set to do its work in a few seconds or in several hours. By setting this small timer at "off," the time delay is disconnected and the switch may be operated as any flush plate switch.

Grandma's Birthday

When making a birthday cake for a person up in years a novel way of indicating the age is to use pecans or walnuts instead of candies, using one whole nut for each year. One fancy candle may be placed in the very center of the cake to shed a little light on the subject.

Cleanse Your Screens

IT IS human nature to take down the screens in the fall and store them in the basement or some similar dry place. Store them dirt and all. But it saves time and trouble in the spring if the screens are put away in pristine condition. They should be brushed thoroughly to remove dust and grime, given a good cleaning with soap suds followed by a rinse with clean water, and when dry gone over every inch with oil to prevent the accumulations of rust. Wrap in heavy paper before storing.

Where there are screens for many windows, it is the part of wisdom to mark each screen so that it may be put back in its right place when late spring and summer come again.

A bright-colored bean bag is a nice inexpensive gift for the small child.

Here's the Way to Treat Those Miserable Colds So Prevalent Here Now

WITH scattered cases of flu breaking out in this locality, don't take chances with colds NOW—it's too dangerous! Unless checked quickly, colds tend to pull down the body resistance and may pave the way for an attack of flu with all its serious complications.

- 1 At the first sign of stuffiness or irritation in the nose or throat, snuff some Vicks VapoRub up the nose several times a day. This will often check a cold at the start.
- 2 If the head is all "stuffed up"—or there is much coughing, melt a teaspoonful of Vicks in a bowl or kettle of hot water and inhale the steaming vapors for five minutes at a time. This treatment has a remarkable effect in clearing the air passages, easing the breathing, soothing the irritation, relieving the cough, and helps to prevent the cold from spreading.
- 3 At bedtime, in order to get the benefit of its long-continued stimulation and inhalation effect, rub Vicks vigorously over the throat and chest and cover with warm flannel.
- 4 If possible, stay at home until the cold is broken. Complete rest helps the body to throw off the cold more quickly.

Mother!—treat children's colds promptly, but avoid "dosing." Too much internal medicine often upsets the child's digestion and lowers the vitality. Being applied externally, Vicks does not upset the stomach, and can be used freely and as often as needed without the slightest harmful effect.

—then I saw my Teeth Whiten 3 shades in 3 days

"Years ago I started seeking a way to remove the ugly yellow from my teeth and keep them sound."

"Nothing I used could lift the veil of ugliness. Stain and tartar shamed me. Decay caused pain and dentist's bills. I decided to try Kolyne's with its Dry-Brush Technique. A revelation!"

"After the first brushing my teeth were whiter. Then I saw them whiten—3 shades in 3 days!"

If you want whiter, sounder teeth, switch to Kolyne. This double-strength dental cream does what no ordinary dentifrice can do. . . . It removes the cause of stain, discoloration, tartar and decay—Bacterial-Mouth. That is why it whitens teeth so quickly.

Everyone who breathes has Bacterial-Mouth. Germs swarm into the mouth and attack teeth and gums. Kolyne gently removes this condition by killing the germs that cause it.

As it enters the mouth, Kolyne multiplies 25 times and becomes a surging, antiseptic foam that permits the famous Dry-Brush Technique.

You can feel this foam work. It gets into every pit, fissure and crevice. It kills germs. . . . neutralizes acids and dissolves tartar. . . . purifies the entire oral cavity and quickly restores teeth to their natural whiteness, without injury. For 3 hours after each brushing this foam continues to clean teeth and combat germs that cause Bacterial-Mouth.

Make This Convincing Test

Try Kolyne. A half-inch on a dry brush, morning and night. Within a few days teeth will look whiter. Gums will look pinker and firmer. Your mouth will tingle with delightful freshness. Get a tube from any drugist.

Satins for

Black Takes Precedence Navy Blue Running Crepes and Satin Mar

By RUTH D

It is well to think of spring costumes fair to be one of the most popular. There is nothing old and tiresome when fashioned into 1931 dress.

Not alone does satin dominate the dress of the season, but it is a flourishing medium and small accessories.

Satin, together with that attractive fabric—faux—is employed for the making of coats and two-piece suits. From the practical standpoint, black satin is almost exclusively used, although dark navy blue has its merits and is well represented in new collections.

Reverting to the straightened line, Paton creates fetching coats of black satin, detailed for interest and cut with a mannish notch collar, shortened sleeves to reveal an expanse of white plique-cuffs attached to the ensemble frock worn beneath.

ENSEMBLES of dress and coat are seen in satin damask in black or in navy. This material with its figured pattern is a trifle too disturbing for outer wear and shows to much better advantage in a long graceful tunic like that of Chantal. This is completed with a skirt and long coat of navy blue wool.

The surplice or diagonal closing used here has extended its influence and now involves sports frocks of jersey as well.

Tunic blouses continue to be made in rather sumptuous fabrics such as bengaline, metal faille and tulle, yet satin here as elsewhere seems to claim the lion's share.

Interrupted pleurals are gaining in popularity. Very often a plain back panel provides a disappearing point for the pleurals, but quite as frequently the pleurals stop abruptly at the side seams as in the printed model from Paton, where it has its beginning at the side front and falls to three-quarter length in back.

DRESS and jacket ensembles formerly delineated in solid color fabrics are appearing now in printed crepes, heretofore somewhat neglected. It remains for the next showings to reveal the real measurement of these patterned silks.

One exception might be made in relation to printed flamenco which is used to some extent by every couturier. Fine pleatings in this printed fabric are used to advantage as a trimming factor.

Reverting to the subject of crepe, plain and unadorned, it is a dominating fabric in evening dress. Vionnet employs it charmingly, using it on the crepe side but allowing just a flash of the satin side to be seen under loops and sashes.

Laurel afternoon and informal dinner dresses are executed in the silhouette based on long skirts and exotic sleeves. The sleeves often are the crucial points, and in many cases the designer's ingenuity is lavished upon this portion of the garment.

Some sleeves are merely graceful, others are marvels of artistic skill. In the Bruyere model of flag blue crepe marocain the sleeve is given a fan-like grace and motion by numerous overlapping bands of plain blue tulle. Albeit the sleeves hold the attention, the unique treatment of the neck is not to be overlooked.

THE ensemble of matching dress and jacket or coat will be carried over into the spring mode and this includes the two-piece suit with its formalized blouse or informal sweater.

For tailored wear, double-breasted jackets of the semi-fitted genre are developed in wool suitings, matched to gored skirts and completed by tuck-ins of silk crepe or linen. Such jackets usually run to hip or waist length, yet other styles show the three-quarter length and preferably are belted. Naturally with these, belted overblouses in similar lengths effect the smart finale.

Black Takes Precedence Over Color, With Navy Blue Running Second—Printed Crepes and Satin Marked for Prestige.

By RUTH DORRIS.

It is well to think of spring costumes in terms of satin since it is fair to be one of the most praiseworthy new season silks. There is nothing old and tiresome about satin in black or navy blue when fashioned into 1931 dresses, coats, suits and ensembles. Not alone does satin dominate for evening, but this supple lustrous silk is a flourishing medium by day in tunics, gilets, tuck-in blouses and small accessories.

With, together with that attractive fabric—faux—is employed for some of the smartest coats and two-piece suits. From the practical black satin is almost exclusively used, although dark navy blue has its merits and is well represented in new collections.

Reverting to the straightened skirt, Patou creates fetching coats of black satin, detailed for interest with a mannish notch and, cut, shortened sleeves to reveal an expanse of white pique—cuffs attached to the ensemble frock worn beneath.

ENSEMBLES of dress and coat have seen in satin damask in black or in navy. This material with its figured pattern is a trifle too disturbing for outer wear and shows to much better advantage in a loose graceful tunic like that of Chantal. This is completed with a long and long coat of navy blue crepe.

The surplice or diagonal closing used here has extended its influence and now involves sports frocks of jersey as well.

Tunic blouses continue to be made in other sumptuous fabrics such as bengaline, metal fallie and lince, yet satin here as elsewhere seems to claim the lion's share.

Interrupted pleurals are gaining popularity. Very often a plain black panel provides a disappearing point for the pleurals, but quite as frequently the pleurals stop abruptly at the side seams as in the printed model from Patou, where it has its beginning at the side front and falls to three-quarter length in back.

The ingeniously crossed pleurals in the printed crepe dress of Germaine Lecompte is another instance of the interrupted pleurals being inserted at the front.

DRESS and jacket ensembles formerly delineated in solid color fabrics are appearing now in printed crepes, heretofore somewhat neglected. It remains for the next showings to reveal the real measurement of these patterned silks.

One exception might be made in relation to printed flamengas which are used to some extent by every designer. Fine pleatings in this printed fabric are used to advantage as a trimming factor.

Reverting to the subject of crepe, plain and unadorned, it is a dominating fabric in evening dress. Vionnet employs it charmingly, using it on the crepe side but allowing just a flash of the satin side to be seen under loops and sashes. Late afternoon and informal dinner dresses are executed in the silhouette based on long skirts and exotic sleeves. The sleeves often are the crucial points, and in many cases the designer's ingenuity is lavished upon this portion of the garment.

Some sleeves are merely graceful, others are marvels of artistic skill. In the Bruyere model of flag blue crepe marocain the sleeve is given a fan-like grace and motion by numerous overlapping bands of plain blue tulle. Albeit the sleeves hold the attention, the unique treatment of the neck is not to be overlooked.

THE ensemble of matching dress and jacket or coat will be carried over into the spring mode and this includes the two-piece suit with its formalized blouse or informal sweater.

For tailored wear, double-breasted jackets of the semi-fitted genre are developed in wool suitings, matched to gored skirts and completed by tuck-ins of silk crepe or linen. Such jackets usually run to hip or waist length, yet other styles show the three-quarter length and preferably are belted. Naturally with these, belted overblouses in similar lengths effect the smart finale.

THE STERN QUEEN
LEARNS TO SMILE

Mary, Since King George's Illness, Has Relaxed Her Rigid Rule Over the Household—Amateur Entertainments and Dancing Are Now Frequent at Buckingham Palace.

QUEEN MARY.

changed. During the King's illness, when Queen Mary was almost broken down with anxiety, never knowing from one hour to another what had news might come to her from the sickroom, she turned to her ladies-in-waiting, whom for years she had kept at a distance, for sympathy. They became her most intimate friends, and have remained so.

To those outside the royal entourage with whom Queen Mary comes into social contact, her majesty is still the same as she always was, and probably always will be—that is, rather distant and reserved.

But within the royal household Queen Mary today has what she never had anywhere before her husband's illness—real and intimate friends, in whose presence she can be entirely natural and herself.

Queen Mary is a happier woman today than she was before her husband's illness, and the royal household is a happier place than it was.

It is still the well ordered establishment that under Queen Mary's rule it always has been; but some of the disciplinary rules have been relaxed.

For example, it had been a strict rule in the royal household since the accession of King George that when the court was in residence at Buckingham Palace there should be no entertainments given by the servants in the servants' hall.

THIS rule was made by Queen Victoria, who considered that the whole time of the royal servants should be given to the performance of their duties when the court was in residence. King Edward described this rule as "most needlessly tyrannical," and did away with it. It was revived by Queen Mary; but her majesty has now abolished it. The royal servants can on certain evenings in the week entertain their friends in the servants' hall, and dancing is permitted. Queen Mary has on occasion gone down to open the dancing by waiting with one of the upper men servants.

Afternoon tea at the palace and at Sandringham before the King's illness was served to Queen Mary in her boudoir. She nearly always took it alone. If she was engaged with any of her ladies-in-waiting when tea was served they would rise, bow and take their departure to the ladies' tea room, where they would have their own tea. The Queen rarely asked them to tea, and then only for business reasons.

One afternoon during the King's illness tea was brought to the Queen, who was in her boudoir with Lady Bertha Dawkins and the Countess of Shaftesbury. The two ladies rose, and the Queen said: "Don't go, dears; have tea with me."

The servant who overheard the word "dears" must have nearly collapsed with surprise, for never before had Queen Mary so addressed any of her ladies-in-waiting. But since that afternoon Queen Mary always has had the company of some of her ladies-in-waiting at tea in her boudoir.

WHAT Queen Mary has gained—the real and intimate friendship of the women about her—was, of course, something that her majesty could have had years ago. Her ladies were all greatly attached to her; but there was that in Queen Mary, as there had been in Queen Victoria, which impelled her to keep those whom she really liked and whom she knew were most loyal devoted to her at a certain distance. It was as if Queen Mary had said, "I must not forget that I am the Queen."

King George would crack jokes with members of the royal household whom he had known since his naval days, but rarely in the presence of his wife. Now he does, some older, the artificial barriers of rank completely disappeared and Queen Mary found the friendship that could always have been hers for the asking.

With King George it was different. He had had real friends among members of his household. Sir Charles Cust, for example, who was in the navy with him, has been as much a pal of King George for the past 38 years as any one man could be with another.

It is a curious reflection that King George's intimacies with the men about him—most of them navy men—were regarded by

It is a curious reflection that King George's intimacies with the men about him—most of them navy men—were regarded by them as a gathering of elderly people, but it will be a merry one for all there—and in the minds of most of their majesties' guests there will be the thought, how changed is the way of life in the royal household to make such a gathering possible.

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts. Edited by Dr. Jago, Goldston, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

Pneumonia.

PNEUMONIA is one of the leading causes of death and medical science is making a many-sided attack upon it.

The infectious nature of the disease is being more extensively appreciated, and, in consequence, better efforts are being made to isolate the sick, and thereby to prevent the spread of the disease among the healthy individuals who are liable to come in contact with the afflicted person.

This quarantine measure has in itself proved effective in the reduction of the spread of pneumonia, particularly in congested communities.

The clinical treatment of pneumonia has also been subjected to a number of careful studies, with productive results.

In recent years, progress has been made in the use of an oxygen-rich atmosphere in the treatment of pneumonia.

The nature of the disease process, as such, has also been subjected to critical study. Though commonly looked upon as a single disease, pneumonia has a variety of forms and is caused by many different types of the so-called pneumo-coccus germs.

Some progress has been made in the development of sera for the treatment of different types of pneumonia.

Further efforts to curtail the disease are being made along chemical and physical lines.

Drug compounds have been developed. The effect of different types of electric currents upon the disease process as it affects the lungs has also been the subject of experiment. Most of these studies are still in the experimental stage.

Certain of them may prove of permanent value, others upon further study, are liable to prove false hopes.

the Smiths needed

$300

(A True Experience)

That tax assessment came at the worst possible time. Mr. Smith had been out of work. Bills had piled up. And here was the final day staring him in the face, and no money to pay the collector.

He simply couldn't lose that home. It meant too much to him and Mrs. Smith and the children. To calm his worries, he turned on the radio. What was that the announcer was saying?—"Household Finance Corporation lends $100 to $300 at the low interest rate established by law, 2 1/4% per month . . . no signatures other than husband's and wife's . . . no embarrassing investigations among employers or neighbors . . . 20 months to pay back."

Just what he was looking for! And every one of those promises were made good when he called at Household the next day.

Everyone, like the Smiths, has financial emergencies at some time. If they should happen in your family you are invited to mail this coupon or call at our offices.

BILL TO INCREASE
STATE INCOME TAX
REVENUE 3-FOLD OFFERED IN HOUSE

Introduction of Survey Commission's Measure Expected to Be Followed in Few Days by Cal-field's Plan.

DRASTIC PENALTIES FOR EVASION FIXED

By Graduated System Small Returns Would Be Assessed 2 1-2 Per Cent,
While Largest Ones
Would Pay 5 1-2 Pct.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 27.—
The State Survey Commission's graduated income tax bill to increase tax collections more than three times, and containing drastic provisions to prevent evasions and enforce payment of the taxes assessed, was introduced today by Representative Langdon Jones of Kentucky, a member of the commission.
It is the expectation that Gov.
Caufield's bill to double the present tax will be offered in the Legislature within a few days.
Under the present flat rate 1 per cent income tax law, a revenue of approximately $4,000,000 is derived. The commission has estimated that collections would be approximately tripled the first year of the law under the proposed act and gradually would increase until by the eighth year they would be quadrupled.
The present law provides for a straight tax of 1 per cent on net incomes of all individuals and corporations. The proposed law would make the corporation income tax a flat rate of 2 1/2 per cent on net income. The graduated tax for individuals starts at 1 1/2 per cent on net incomes after allowance of exemptions not exceeding $100, increasing to 2 1/2 per cent on net incomes in the bracket between $1500 and $4000, and stepping up at the rate of one-half of 1 per cent for each additional $1000 of net income until $19,000 is reached, all above that figure being in the same bracket. An increasing deduction of $4000 of income is provided for each bracket above $4000.

Schedule of Per Cents.
As set out in the bill, the rates on net income (gross income less deductions and exemptions) not exceeding $1500, a rate of 1 1/2 per cent.
On net incomes in excess of $1500 and not exceeding $4000, a rate of 2 1/2 per cent.
On net incomes in excess of $4000 and not exceeding $7000, a rate of 3 per cent, less one-half of 1 per cent on $4000.
On net incomes in excess of $7000 and not exceeding $10,000, a rate of 3 1/2 per cent, less 1 per cent on $4000.
On net incomes in excess of $10,000
and not exceeding $12,000, a rate of 4 per cent, less 1 1/2 per cent on $4000.
On net incomes in excess of $12,000
and not exceeding $14,000, a rate of 4 1/2 per cent, less 2 per cent on $4000.
On net incomes in excess of $14,000
and not exceeding $16,000, a rate of 5 per cent, less 2 1/2 per cent on $4000.
On net incomes in excess of $16,000
and not exceeding $18,000, a rate of 5 1/2 per cent, less 3 per cent on $4000.

Percent Rate Compared.
These rates, the Survey Commission has computed, would mean increases over present rates as follows, the amounts being figured for a married man with two dependent children (the exemptions thus being $2000 for head of a family and $2500 for each child) but no other deductions being made:

As to proportion of gross income taken in income tax, the commission's proposal favors the taxpayer with small income. For instance, the taxpayer with gross income of $2000 (with $2000 exemptions) would pay three-tenths of 1 per cent in income taxes.
The proportion paid in taxes would increase sharply up to $15,000 after which there would be a
